'The class is about finding out what kind of a person you are, how you act, how you work'

Striving for Excellence

ACHS brings arete to PASS class

By KENNETH PATCHEN

Clap. A simple ritual but the meaning is enormous. The Greek concept of arete is being applied by Antioch Community High School students in a class designed to promote achievement through sport.

"Most classes deal with the mind. Physical education might deal a lot with the body. But, we try to use the mind, body, and spirit," said Mark Ring, PASS Class teacher. PASS is an acronym for Promoting Achievement in School through Sport.

Ring compares the philosophy of the course to the ancient Greek principle of arete. Arete is all the good qualities that make character. He defined it as a "striving for excellence."

"The class is about finding out what kind of a person you are, how you act, how you work," Ring said.

He teaches the course to sophomore, junior, and senior students who wish to learn how to apply the fundamentals of athletic mastery to other parts of their life. The eight fundamentals are: power, attitude, flexibility, balance, rhythm, relaxation, concentration, and instinct.

"We try to set ourselves goals," Ring said of the students. One goal is related to academic improvement; the other is related to athletic achievement.

Students select one academic goal that improves on their June grade point average and a second average that might be more difficult for them to achieve. Students select either of the goals to work on in the PASS Class.

"They have to set themselves a weekly schedule," Ring said. The schedule helps them work towards improved academic performance by showing how time has been spent. Students also list three athletic goals. Then, one goal is selected as their focus.

The class itself is the forum for students to identify goals, to determine goal feasibility, to work out a strategy to achieve their academic and athletic goals, and to evaluate their progress on a weekly basis. It also provides students an opportunity to apply and to lead athletic rituals—such as a group hand clap—that help them focus on their goals.

The clap signifies respect among the team members for one another.

Ring said that ACHS students want to get into the class, but not all parts of it are popular. "Last year was the first. We had two classes. This year we have three (classes)," he said.

When asked which of the eight fundamentals strike the most responsive chord in student life, he could not say. "I'm sure I know they don't like the 'concentration practice,' where they have to concentrate for 10 minutes every day," Ring said.

On Wednesday, March 25, the PASS class and students in the Physical Best Class met jointly with Andy Heck, a left offensive tackle linesman with the Chicago Bears football team.

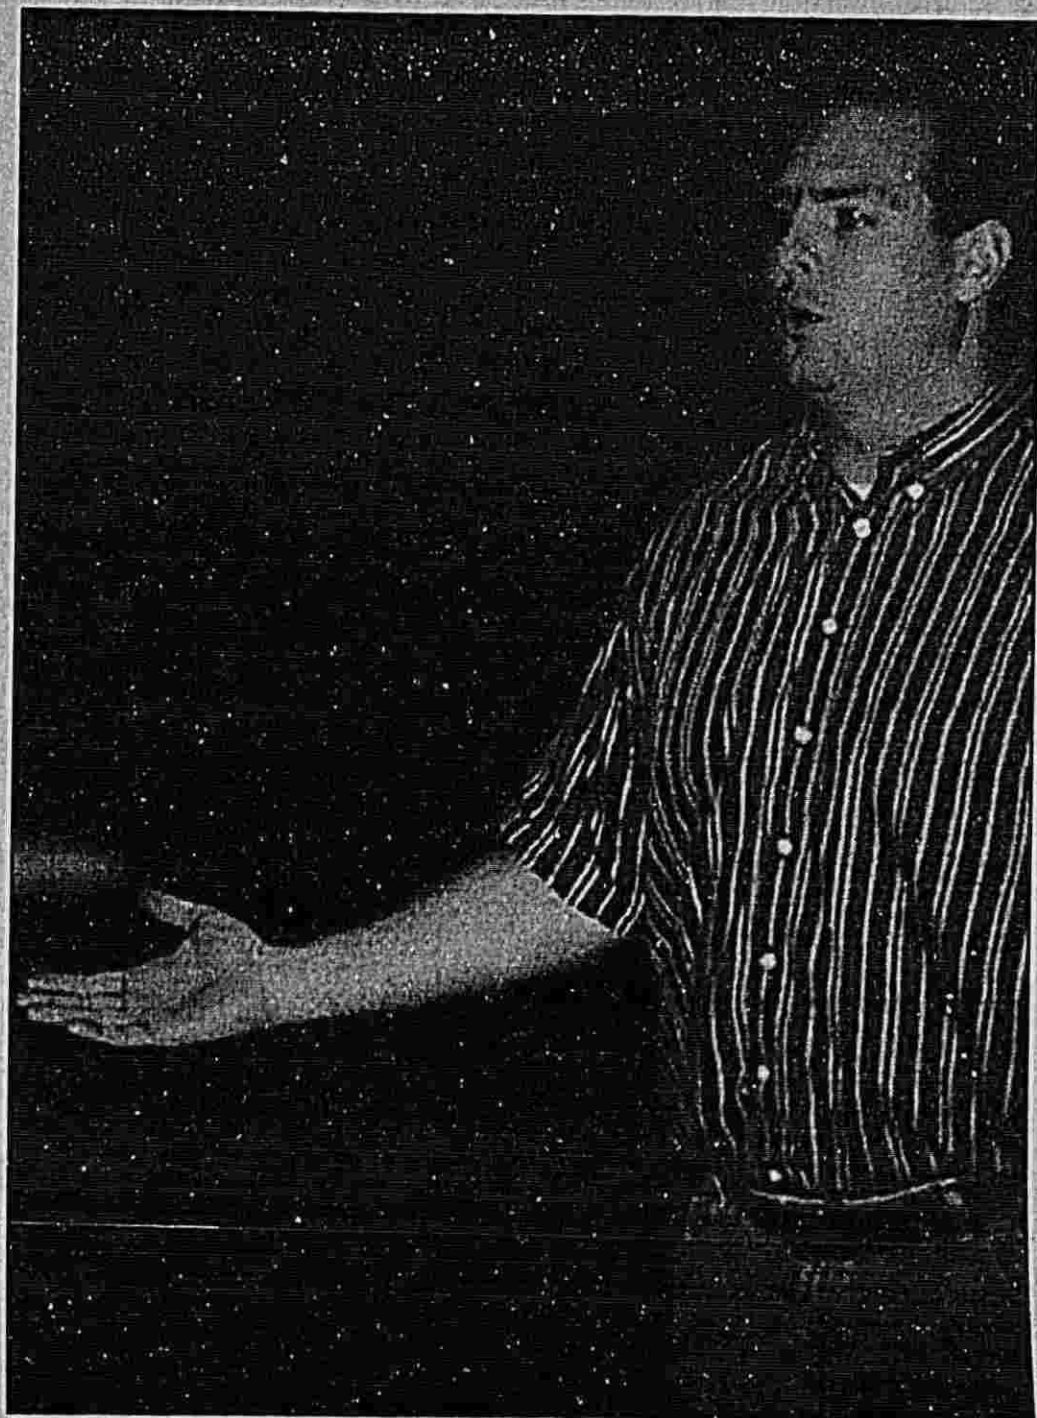

"He's a great guy," said Ring of Heck. "He said he'd like to come out to Antioch and talk."

The meeting provided about 100 students with a chance to meet and talk to an athlete who applies the fundamentals of athletic mastery to professional level sports and to his life.

Andy Heck told the students that PASS "raises athletics to the level that it should be." He discussed his high school athletic career, his academic upbringing at home, and his years at Notre Dame as a college student. He talked of his years with the Seattle Seahawks and the Bears.

"I got involved with the PASS Program because for me, athletics played a very important part in my life," he told students.

Heck discussed two of the athletic fundamentals, concentration and attitude. "I think those are extremely important ones," he said.

"Preparation all goes back to attitude." He thinks that success comes from having the attitude to do what needs to be done now in order to succeed later.

Concentration is important to athletes on the field. "They've got outstanding concentration," Heck said of his colleagues. It helps players stay focused on their objective to win the game.

Poet, 11, reacts to Jonesboro tragedy

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

As leaves of grass turn green before spring break, a Grass Lake School student turns to poetry to express thoughts about four dead students, a dead teacher, and ten wounded people in Jonesboro, Ark.

Seventh-grader Craig Maniscalco, 11, had walked into his home to find his mother watching the March 24 story unfold on television.

His mother, Paula Maniscalco, was watching news of the latest in a series of student killings during the past six months.

In October, 1997, in Pearl, Miss., two students had been killed and seven others injured. In December, in Paducah, Ky. three students had been killed and five were wounded. Since January, 1993, there have been at least 23 students between the ages of 11 and 17 killed by students or former students at schools throughout the United States.

"He came in the door," Paula said of her son, Craig. He watched with her and then left the room. "He was writing something. I thought it was homework," she said.

Paula asked her son what he was doing. "I'm writing a poem," he said.

Craig is a strong academic student with an active intellectual life beyond his subjects. During spring break, he was in Huntsville, Ala. at a space camp where he would be flying in small planes, taking courses related to space flight and preparing himself for a career as an astronaut.

"It's something he is basing his whole scholastic plan on," father Scott Maniscalco said of his son's space career. To even consider a career as an astronaut, students must perform well scholastically, early. Craig already is focused on that performance and his career.

"(Craig) likes poetry," Scott said. "He has been aspiring to write poetry for a couple of years."

Craig incorporates poetry as part of his life. In other parts, he is a First Class Scout of Boy Scout Troop 180. He works as a newspaper delivery boy for "The Advertiser" and is a Red Cross Certified baby sitter. He likes ice-less hockey and plays Antioch Youth Baseball.

"Soccer, sometimes," said mother Paula.

"He loves animals," she said. One close friend is his Rottweiler named Ariel, 8-years-old. He also has a St. Bernard named Arthur, who is 2-years-old.

Craig also likes to build and launch model rockets. "We follow high-power rocketry together," father Scott said.

Poetry is a means of expression that Craig had been encouraged to develop. His father said that at a previous school, Craig had been encouraged to

Antioch Township expanding services

Antioch Township office continues to expand services for area residents. Supervisor Tim Osmond and Assessor Heather Kufalk-Marotta each make special services available.

Kufalk-Marotta will answer questions regarding assessments, property sales, and the size of homes and land. She handles senior citizen exemptions, the homestead limited exception, senior citizen tax freeze (PTAX), homestead improvement exemption, owners of record, the Illinois circuit breaker, and notary services. She now has green sheet applications in her office. The sheets are used for real estate transfer declarations. Their availability means that area residents do not need to go to Waukegan to obtain one.

Osmond offers 11 services from the township offices. These include general and emergency assistance, emergency food supplies, disabled parking applications, vehicle stickers, voter registration, a rules of the road course, RTA senior citizen passes and photographic identification, CHAD stickers for children's safety seats in vehicles, insurance seminars, Illinois Cooperative Extension Service programs, and Arbor Day recognition.

EXCELLENCE: ACHS brings arete to classroom

tary to professional level sports and to his life.

Andy Heck told the students that PASS "raises athletics to the level that it should be." He discussed his high school athletic career, his academic upbringing at home, and his years at Notre Dame as a college student. He talked of his years with the Seattle Seahawks and the Bears.

"I got involved with the PASS Program because for me, athletics played a very important part in my life," he told students.

Heck discussed two of the athletic fundamentals, concentration and attitude. "I think those are extremely important ones," he said.

"Preparation all goes back to attitude." He thinks that success comes from having the attitude to do what needs to be done now in order to succeed later.

Concentration is important to athletes on the field. "They've got outstanding concentration," Heck said of his colleagues. It helps players stay focused on their objective to win the game.

Questions from Antioch students covered a wide range of topics, from how to be focused when things do not go well in a game to drug use problems in the National Football League.

PASS was created in 1989 by Joel Kirsch, a sports psychologist for the San Francisco Giants. It was used in California schools for many years and has now spread to about two dozen schools in the United States.

"It's run by the American Sports Institute out of Mill Valley, California, which is a suburb of San Francisco," Ring said.

ACHS Athletic Director and Assistant Principal Jim Kafer encouraged Ring to take the training program to teach the PASS course. It was a three week, nine hours a day, 6 days a week introduction to the PASS Class concept and application to life.

"It really gets you organized as a teacher," Ring said. Now he is able to teach others how to teach the course.

Ring believes the program can help students learn about themselves.

"It's not about bettering your grades. It's not about making yourself a better athlete. It's more about finding out who you are."

Church displays banner of Jesus

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

A banner with the head of Jesus Christ that emerges from the handprints of the members of three area church faiths is on display at Beautiful Savior Evangelical Lutheran Church, 554 Parkway, Antioch.

The banner was originally created by the congregation of Transfiguration Catholic Church during 1995. Artists in the Wauconda congregation drew and painted the face of Christ on a 15 feet by 22 feet size brown craft-paper banner.

Members of the Transfiguration congregation then traced their handprints on construction paper. These were cut and glued to the banner. The result was a picture of Christ's head made from hand prints.

The banner was given to Beautiful Savior church in 1997. Since it needed repair, members of the congregation traced their hands on construction paper to add to recreate the face of Christ.

Beautiful Savior church worships on Sunday at 9 a.m. and shares its building with a Baptist congregation known as Lighthouse. The Lighthouse congregation has their worship service on Saturday evenings at 6 p.m. They also were invited by Beautiful Savior church to add their hand prints to the banner.

The banner now is fully repaired with the entwined hand prints of members of a Catholic, Lutheran, and Baptist Church.

Mother Burm has car cleaning advice

Marilynn Burm was at the Chamber's Business Expo '98 Saturday afternoon. Her son Michael, was at his new business at Antioch Auto Detailing, 284 Main Street.

Mother Burm said he is open for business and cleans automobiles and boats better than anyone in the county.

Her son's card says he also does interior shampoos, high speed buffs, paint seals, engine degreasing, carpet dying, and air brushing.

"They keep coming back," the proud mother said of her son's customers. "He's always done it," she said. "He's just gotten better over the years." Does she get her car cleaned there? "He doesn't even have time for me, and I'm his mother," she said.

Amanda Perryman at Books Etc., 901 Main Street, is starting up a Poetry Group at the downtown bookstore. It is a group that would both write and read poetry. She has a few interested members, and others are asked to call her at the store to express interest—847-838-2665.

Sequoia Pride was selling food at the Chamber of Commerce Business Expo '98 at Antioch Community High School.

Lynn Doolittle and Sheri Fries served up fine pizza and a chug of milk. This is a group that keeps moving into new areas. They have milk now, instead of just soda. And, they had fudge from Something Sweet, 879 Main Street, wrapped in Cellophane sitting there in a basket on the counter where hands rest while awaiting the pizza slice. The mint fudge is good too.

The Chamber of Commerce and Industry conducted raffles at the weekend Business Expo '98 at Antioch Community High School. Winners of $100 worth of Chamber Gift Certificates are Lauren Newcomb, Dan Lee, and Peter Kukla, all of Antioch.

Ariel Kerby was elected "Little Miss Illinois" in Peoria over the March 27 and 28 weekend. Competing in three categories, Kerby was given a virtually perfect score in the sportswear competition, a modeling skill category.

"She received a designer crown, monogrammed banner, crown pin, a satin jacket that says 'Little Miss Illinois' on it, a plaque, and a $100 savings bond," said mother Sherri Kerby.

There were seventeen participants in the pageant. Next on her schedule is the America's Beautiful Miss pageant in Skokie.

John Selber has returned from the U.S. Open Tae Kwon Do competitions at Disneyworld. "I had two kids compete from Antioch," he said.

Dave Lols, 16, competed in the 13-16 age class. "It's his first time in as a black belt," Seiber said.

Tim Walker, 17, was in the 17 and older class. "He beat Canada, Columbia, and Ecuador," Seiber said of his student.

There were 75 black belts in his weight class from almost 50 countries. "Walker lost to Mexico in the medal round. For Walker, the competition from now on includes adults. "(Walker) was right there with the world's very best," said teacher Seiber.

POET: Student reacts to Jonesboro through poem

write poetry. Craig has kept up with it and continues to write.

Craig quickly wrote his untitled poem in response to the Jonesboro slayings.

"He wrote it from the point of view of the 11-year old who saw his friend die," Paula said. The poem reflects Scott's re-creation of the experience of another 11-year old whose friend is killed. The school forwarded the poem to the newspaper.

"He always has written poems," Paula said. "His mind just works all the time."

During Grass Lake School's spring break, Craig left home to study space science and work on his career. When he got there, he let the folks at home know he had arrived.

"He doesn't write," Paula said. But, he did telephone.

Antioch High Dance Team wins 4th in state competition

Places in Aerobic Funk & Dance

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Antioch Community High School Dance Team took fourth place in state competition at the University of Illinois March 21.

The team placed fourth in two areas of competition, Aerobic Funk and Dance.

Dance Team Coach Joy Edge gives credit for the strong performance of team members to their risk taking, parent involvement, and choreography.

"Their accomplishments this year have just been fantastic," she told students and faculty members at the March 26 State Stars Breakfast at the school. "They worked tremendously hard."

Aerobic funk dance is funky and fast. "It usually involves a lot more staccato-street dance moves," Edge said.

Dance is lyrical. "It's something like what a dance studio would produce."

"Our movement into the dance category was new," Edge said of the risk taking. This is a very strong category of competition in the state.

Also, some schools have weight, height, and dance experience requirements. ACHS does not have restrictions.

"As much as we want to be competitive, we want it to be fun," Edge said.

Parent involvement and support for the dance Team has been very strong. "Every kid had a parent down there," said School Board member and parent Sandy Jacobs. "That was great support for the girls."

Edge said that parent support is a very strong element of their success. "As a group, almost every parent came to every competition," she said. This was not the only way parents were supportive, however.

Edge said that parents created a photograph album of the season and a videotape of all senior student performances. Parents also created team T-shirts to recognize the state championship achievement.

Our choreography is very different," Edge said. "We do a lot of gymnastics." This makes the ACHS Dance Team somewhat unique compared to other team performers.

Judges commented in their evaluation material that the ACHS Dance Team had "very original choreography."

Dance Team risk taking refers to the performance of moves that require precision both in execution of the move and final group body placement after the move.

"It's harder to make it uniform," Edge said. "We did an incredible amount of spinning." For competitive spinning, the entire 20-person team must turn in unison within each spin as well as complete the routine with all bodies facing the same direction. Edge said that this is not easy because the momentum and speed are different for each team member.

The Dance Team does cartwheels that end in toe-touches. They spin into toe touches. They do triple turns rather than single turns. That is the risk taking choreography for which they earn points.

Dance Team tryouts are in April. Fund-raising is done in June. The Team begins work outs in June or July. There are two practice sessions in the summer as well as Dance Camp training. During the school year, Dance Team practice is three or four days a week for three hours a day.

Fund-raising is three events. The team sponsors a children's dance camp from June 9 to 11. The team members also have car washes. They also sponsor a raffle for items donated by merchants and business owners.

The captain for the dance team is Megan Tripp. Senior members are Shannon Pedersen and Alexis Dayhuff.

Junior class members include: Krista Hintz, Kelly Haley, Nicole Ginascol, Stacey Astar, Sara Cashmore, Korbyn May, Samantha Griffin, Stacey Larcom, and Chanelle Bernt.

Sophomores are: Katie Dalton, Tracie Zersen, Molly Meyer, Dustyn Bono, and Jessica Jacobs. Freshmen are: Katie Bregenzer, Kelli Cozart, and Cory Gardell.

Chamber's Expo '98 offers local consumer education

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry Business Expo '98 was a chance to see how much local merchants, entrepreneurs, and businesses are growing and expanding.

The businesses may serve people in small town Antioch, but their product horizons and customers can be world wide.

And, of course, there is always the irreverent Joanne Linker at J.J. Blinks.

"Lace is really coming back," said Judy Perryman, owner of The Tulip Patch, 390 Lake Street. "We sell all kinds of table lace and runners."

She had a display of new lace that is not only affordable but also machine washable. The curtain lace has designs with pine cones, light-houses, Victorian villages, bird houses, Noah's Ark, and even flower gardens. She displayed placemats of lace. One had color embroidery to personalize each setting.

Personalized embroidery is available from MaryKay Tointon at Elite Embroidery, 893 Main Street. She has high-technology equipment that can embroider fabric in color. One customer told her, "I've never seen work as good as yours." She not only has designs which people can choose from, but she does a great deal of original work with business logos. Tointon can even order the clothing that people want to have embroidered.

Douglas G. Schieck at Tangent Corporation, 959 Main Street, offers customers personalized watches. He said Tangent creates watches with advertising. The company can do one watch, several, or many dozens. The watches can be used to promote a business, honor someone who has retired, or commemorate a team accomplishment. They have a selection of watches and existing designs. Schieck makes the specialized watch faces with a screen or die.

S&S Landscaping, 1031 West Route 173, created a miniature garden show with the smells of spring earth, the sound of water in small ponds, and the sight of blooming flowers in their display area. It was intended to show off their full range of landscaping services and garden store products. Owner Scott Smith has been doing this for ten years. "We help with the actual design and layout." Entrepreneurs were present to make contacts for their nationally known products sold in homes or offices. Myrna "Mo" Ferguson represents Mary Kay beauty products (847-395-5485) and Teresa Hubert sells Tupperware (847-546-5241). However, there were other products sold in the home. Joan E. Gilligan (414-654-6539) is an independent distributor of Alpine Industries air filtration equipment. It permits people to clean the air in their home.

Julie Konvalinka (847-838-5395) offers both home and corporate visits to display Premier Designs jewelry. "It's high fashion jewelry," she said. "We use gold and silver bonded on a metal base." There is a lifetime warranty against defects in manufacturing. She also will serve as a hostess in her home for groups of neighbors who wish to learn more.

Electronics, telecommunications, and the Internet are part of the local business community. Randy Freeman of Antioch Cellular, 430 Lake Street, was there to display personal mobile telephones.

New in town is Sam Balark, a representative for Ameritech small business services (312-578-6426). He works with business to find the appropriate telephone equipment and services.

Judith C. Kallos of Lake Online and istudio, 391 Lake Street, was there to introduce her new association with InfoRamp Express and demonstrate the exciting possibilities of the Internet. The possibilities for her business include work with customers from all over the planet, from Canada to Saudi Arabia. She still works closely with the Antioch Chamber of Commerce to manage their "Experience Antioch" web site.

SMART HOUSE HUNTING

Serious house hunting can leave you worn out and confused at the end of the day. It is hard to remember which house had the great backyard and kitchen and which one you ruled out because of inadequate storage space. Some of the houses you visited looked familiar—like maybe you had seen them before. How can you conserve energy and keep it all straight?

The first step is to find a Realtor who knows the area well and will only show you homes that meet your criteria. Next you should invest in a small note pad in order to keep a record of the homes you visit. Note the address, style and exterior color, as well as something distinctive about the house that will trigger your memory. Make a special note if a house has real possibilities. Jot down important pluses and minuses of each property and share this information with your Realtor. This will help you narrow down the houses so that you can focus on your favorites.

ACHS state stars recognized

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Students who have achieved Illinois state recognition for athletic performance were honored on March 26 during early morning ceremonies at Antioch Community High School.

Individuals received a medal from the school for achievement as bowler, wrestler, dance team member, and cheerleader.

Athletic Department Director Jim Kafer said that four years ago the school started a program to honor athletes who qualify for state competition. He said that it is a great source of pride for the Antioch community, school, and coaches to recognize these performers.

"Even though I had nothing to do with that, I enjoy identifying with it," he said to the students and faculty gathered for the breakfast event.

"We certainly applaud their achievement," Kafer said.

Bowling Coach Steve Haenchen presented Amber Swiderek with her medal for becoming a state qualifier in bowling.

Wrestling Coach Joe Brandimere announced medals for state wrestlers Nate Carden, Jeff Ultes, and Ryan Hliniak.

Cheerleader Coach Bill Goetz-

A new employee benefit in the making

There is a new study being done on, of all things, the advantages of sleeping on the job—true story. This news must leave working folks all over thinking “all right, I no longer have to practice sleeping with my eyes opened,” while purposely unemployed are saying to themselves, “gee, now what excuse do I have to not get a job.”

First we had health clubs in the office place, followed by day care centers, now we have sleeping rooms as well—can our working environment possibly get any better than this. What a motivational tool for big corporation to lure in prospective college graduates. These young people worked 10 years and spent a kabillion dollars on their chosen degree, and now they are rewarded with getting into a company that lets them sleep on the job—and who says a good education doesn't pay off.

According to this study, large railroad company is one of the biggest promoters of this new trend. Anyone who has ever driven up to a train crossing knows how intimidating those immense engines can be as they zoom by your compact car. Now with the knowledge tucked under our belts

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

that the guys driving those big machines have the go-ahead from the men who sign their paychecks to take an occasional nap now and then, well that makes the approach to that same railroad crossing just that much more unnerving.

It was pointed out that in today's highly stressful job market, people may need to step back from a problem and clear their heads. What a better way than an afternoon doze. It fails to mention the fact that these movers and shakers of the world, who hold these stressful jobs have no problem wining and dining prospective clients till the wee hours of the morning on fat company expense accounts, therefore giving up their God-given right of a good night sleep. Could this possibly be the reason we have a fuzzy head and need a little nap in the middle of the afternoon? How is this little added employee benefit going to be enforced.

Something tells me if Pete, the resident file room clerk, is found spending a few minutes napping among the file folders, Pete will be pounding the pavement in the very near future for a new job.

Whereas, if Mr. Corner Office With A View decides to install a king size waterbed between his Stairmaster and Wet bar, he will soon be promoted to Head Guru in Charge.

Now the supporters of this up and coming trend are not suggesting any snooze over 15 or 20 minutes, but they also add that after your little siesta, it takes another 15 minutes or so to regain your wits about yourself, not to mention fix your hair, brush your teeth and iron your wrinkled clothing.

Folks who have the distinct pleasure of working at home, whether it be in a fully equipped office or just a nook in the rarely used dining room, feel quite offended by this latest course of direction.

And so goes another “Jingle From Pringle.”

Readers with information for “Jingle from Pringle” should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Book store offers space to enjoy reading, writing

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Antioch's downtown bookstore continues to create special moments or opportunities for customers to enjoy books beyond the customary browsing and buying.

New groups forming at Books Etc., 901 Main Street, include preschool story time, a writers group, and a readers book club.

Owner Dale Perryman has preschool story time sessions starting April 8 at 4:30 p.m. The sessions will be lead by Randall School substitute teacher Kerry Shurtleff.

“She's going to be leading the American Girl Club,” he said. “She'll try to have a new program each month,” Perryman said.

There is no cost, but people must sign-up at the store for reservations.

The readers book club is in formation. People will read a book and discuss it for the group, or the group will read the same book and discuss it among themselves. “I'll provide them a meeting place,” Perryman said. He also will offer a discount on group purchases of one book, if that is how they decide to approach their sessions.

People who are interested in any of these book-related groups can telephone Perryman at 847-838-2665.

Talking Health

by Dr. Scott Reiser, D.C.

CHIROPRACTIC FOR CHILDREN

Some parents have a difficult time finding the middle ground when it comes to their children's health. They either overreact and rush to the doctor with every sniffle or become practitioners of benign neglect and assume that their children will heal naturally. Neither extreme is optimum, but when an injury is involved, it is especially important to evaluate the child's condition carefully.

A child's life can be full of minor physical calamities. Most of the banged shins, bumped heads, and pitcher's elbows heal spontaneously, but some injuries can cause imbalances that significantly interfere with normal nerve function. The result may be digestive problems, headaches, or ongoing structural compensations that contribute to a spiraling series of imbalances.

A child who has problems resulting from scoliosis certainly needs chiropractic care, but every child should have periodic chiropractic exams to ensure that their minor injuries do not become major adult health problems.

If maintaining your health and reducing stress is important to you, call Round Lake Beach Chiropractic at 847-740-2800 to make an initial, no obligation consultation with Dr. Scott G. Reiser. Dr. Reiser has served the Lake and McHenry County area for over 10 years. Let his knowledge and experience serve you. ## THE CLIPBOARD

Guest Columnist:
Aaron Lawlor

Are athletes role models?

Guest columnist Aaron Lawlor is a student at Libertyville High School and is the assistant news editor for Drops of Ink, the high school's student newspaper. He recently wrote about the code of conduct that all athletes at Libertyville High must sign in the March 27 issue of D.O.I.

To me, being an athlete is more than fun and games. During the past month, 20 athletes have violated the athletic code of conduct. The code states that Libertyville Community High School athletes should not consume alcoholic beverages or substances, or be involved with illegal activities. These 20 students, who shine on the playing field, have been arrested for at least one offense and are members of Athletes Committed to Excellence.

LCHS athletes are not exhibiting behavior that befits their position. There is more to being an athlete than competing: athletes bear our school name, team and personal reputation on their shoulders. They are constantly in the spotlight. People see athletes and form opinions based on the way they represent themselves. An athlete's actions are immediately associated with his or her sport, not to mention our school.

Not only are student athletes representatives, but also role models. When elementary kids see high school athletes, they look up to them. When those same kids go to the mall and see the star athletes smoking, kids can easily reach the conclusion that smoking is acceptable. Although smoking may seem to be a victimless crime, other people are affected by these actions.

Perhaps athletes don't think of themselves as role models and maybe they don't even care. But, if an athlete really loves their sport and wants to excel in it, why would they choose to inhibit their performance? It is a selfish person who would put a high or moment of dizziness ahead of the team.

ACE is an organization dedicated to student athletes who chose to live a substance-free life. The irony is that numerous members of ACE are the ones committing these "crimes." Why join something just to violate the very essence behind it? Every athlete who breaks the ACE code to live a "clean" life, weakens the integrity of the group. Even though some people's integrity means nothing, the club is degraded when members are breaking their word.

Athletic Director Tim Albers addressed this issue at an athletic meeting last Friday by saying, "Who am I? Where do I want to go? What do I have to do to get there? Am I going to let this situation stop me from where I want to go?" If we truly took this to heart, if everyone believed in the character of their sport enough to put down the bottle of alcohol or the cigarette, then maybe all of us could get where we want to go.

If you, or someone you know would like to be a guest columnist, please call Brendan O'Neill at 223-8161 (ext. 132), fax to 223-8810, or e-mail the sports department at edit@lnd.com.

Sequoits get hits, need wins

Antioch girls need to improve defense early in season

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Offense has not been a problem for the young Antioch High varsity softball squad.

The Sequoits have scored 16 runs in the first two games. Both were 9-8 losses to Prairie Ridge and Cary-Grove.

"We are hitting the ball pretty well, but the defense has to tighten up. We will improve as our inexperience turns to experience," said ACHS coach Steve Wapon.

Leading hitters for the Sequoits include:

Melissa Bock, who had a triple against PR and a single against Cary; Shannah Jaburek with four singles in two games; Jocelyn McRae with a single and double against the Wolves and two singles vs. Cary; Cary Hagglund with a double against Cary-Grove and senior Jenny Minor with two hits against Prairie Ridge and a single against Cary.

The Sequoits had a 6-0 lead in the early going before Cary rallied. The winners were led by a power hitter with a single, double, and a 220-foot home run which decided the game.

At Pekin, Antioch rallied for a 3-1 lead before storms canceled the rest of the game and game two as well as another scheduled contest.

Wapon, saw many positives from the trip, which included a practice at Illinois State University.

"The trip is the key to the season. It was a great opportunity for our young players and our seniors showed leadership," said Wapon.

Down 1-0 and held to one-hit through four innings, Antioch rallied. Dana Spandet and Scopel walked, followed by Bock who reached on an error. Minor singled for an RBI and two more runs came home on an error.

Freshman, Abby Thomas was called on to pitch, and she threw 4 and one-third innings with five hits and one run. ACHS also executed a double play with Jaburek pitching.

"We had numerous good plays on defense. This was the first time we played defense the way we are capable," said Wapon.

In another game, a home run by Bock was the only Antioch highlight in a 16-1 loss to Rockford Harlem.

The underclass teams, with many players on the varsity, have had a rough start. The junior varsity lost to Harlem and Cary and the freshmen tied Harlem.

Antioch's varsity hosts McHenry April 8.

ACHS nine starts strong with two victories

Boys open season with bang

Offense is a strength of Antioch High's early going in the baseball season.

The Sequoits have racked up 30 runs in two wins.

Tom Baird was credited with the win in an 18-2 win over Egin St. Edward on Monday. ACHS shutout Wauconda 12-0 in the season opener.

Reggie Hughes led the hitting attack with a 4 for 5 game with three singles and he cranked a home run.

"We had good hitting from across the board. Baird helped his own cause with a double and a single," said ACHS coach Paul Petty.

Baird threw 77 pitches and had 50 strikes. The Green Wave had two home runs to account for both scores.

"He was pitching pretty good. But sometimes you have to pitch to learn. It is better now than the bottom of the seventh against Zion-Benton," said Petty.

Richter looked strong in his first outing on March 21. The game marked the first time ACHS had a chance to get outside.

"He looked good. It was cold, so he only went five innings. He stayed right around the plate. We had worked on a control and location of his fastball the last few weeks. He won't overpower anyone, though," said Petty.

Wauconda was shutout in its second game as well, but came back to win a tournament at Harvard.

The ACHS defense looked strong in both games, with two errors in game one and three against St. Edward.

"We are working closer to a lineup we are comfortable with," said Petty.

Rain washed out a second game with Wauconda and likely a Waukegan clash. ACHS hosts Carmel April 4 in a 1:30 p.m. doubleheader.

"We are working on consistency and working out the bugs we need to work on as a group. Varsity ball is a different setting for some of these juniors," said Petty.

Senior netters to lead Antioch this season

Experience a plus for Sequoits

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

There are some familiar faces as Antioch High hopes to reach the upper half of the North Suburban Conference tennis race this season.

"We have got a core number of people back from last year," said ACHS coach Brian Plinske.

Senior Erik Lipps returns at first doubles while Kevin Ward, No. 3 doubles last year, also is back. Andrew Dohrmann played third doubles last season while seniors Gary Kidric and Sebastian Andino also played doubles.

"We are looking for our seniors to carry the responsibility of doubles. The singles load will be placed on the shoulders of our juniors," said Plinske.

The early season match-ups have Ward and Lipps at No. 1, Jeremy Jones, a football player and Dohrmann, a basketball player, at

No. 2 doubles.

J.J. Edwards is the leading candidate for the top singles post. The junior was No. 2 last year. Dan Clarke, another junior, is making strides in his first year of tennis.

The toughest conference matches which could go a long way in determining the NSC standing are Zion-Benton and Mundelein. Plinske termed these as "huge."

Juniors looking to pitch in include: Joe Kohler, who played junior varsity last year; Steve Arendas, up from the JV last year; and first-year players Dan Clarke, Elliot Koesling and Justin Weeks.

Sophomores with JV experience as freshmen are Jim Gramhofer and Dan O'Connell, Santi Andino, Mike Otten and Nick Kidric. Mike Outinen is in his first year.

Freshmen are: Nick Placko, Jordan Nobler, Tim Gustafson and Ryan Luetzon. Also, Mike Nowak, Jason Love, Dave Thomas and Mike Baba.

The season opens this weekend at the Wheeling Invite April 4. ACHS largely opens the year on the road, with four dual matches. They visit Woodstock April 6.

Gooches lead ACHS track win opener

Whether it be on the gridiron, the hardwood or in several track and field events, the Gooches come through for Antioch.

Quinn, a sophomore and Dave, a senior, provided the difference in points as Antioch surprised Crystal Lake Central 70-66 in a dual meet.

"It really should help us. We have a lot of young athletes. The Gooches always come through for us," said ACHS coach Norm Hahn.

Dave, a senior who injured a knee in the first game of the football season, is on the mends but not 100 percent. But when he was asked to, he delivered and then some Thursday. His victory in the 200 meters, 23.0, was the difference. He won the discus with a heave of 159-7. He also won the 100-meter dash in 11.0.

"His knee is still a little sore. He is about 90 percent and needs some conditioning," said Hahn.

Quinn Gooch won the long and triple jump with efforts of 18-1.25 in the long jump and 40.8 in the triple jump.

Brian Potter gave the visitors a first and second-place effort. He won the shot put in 47-0 and was second in the discus. "He is doing well - that was his best discus effort," said Hahn.

Another Antioch performance of note was Don Lackey. In his first track season, he was second in the high jump at 6-0. The Tigers' high jumper won the event on fewer misses.

"That is real encouraging. He can be a good high jumper," said Hahn.

Brian Terryberry won the 110 high hurdles and Mike Castiglia the 300 intermediate hurdles for ACHS.

Crystal Lake Central swept the relays and dominated the distance races. Hahn expected the Tigers to be a tough foe, since the team had just won a large meet indoors.

Antioch is at the Leyden meet April 4. Due to ACT tests and vacations, the Sequoits may have a largely underclass lineup going for experience.

Rams hurt by walks; boys rally in opener

It is as much a baseball rule as four balls for a walk and three outs for an inning: walks, more often than not, result in runs.

"I just said they scored six of their 10 walks. That is the difference in the game," said Grayslake coach Sean Ferrell.

The Rams had some positives as well in a 15-9 loss to Waukegan in the season opener Monday.

"We were down 8-1 early and we came back. We did not do a horrible job defensively," said Ferrell.

Waukegan dominated early and late in securing its first win after being swept in a doubleheader at Libertyville. The Bulldogs took advantage of Dave Weber's early walks to mount an attack.

Weber poked a home run in the first, walked and singled. "He will not have too many weak hits," said Ferrell.

The Rams regained the lead after four at-bats with a five-run third and a two-run fourth.

The walk bug-a-boo hurt the Rams in the fifth as yet another free pass scored.

The Rams tried to rally with a double steal in the sixth, but the lead runner was gunned down at home plate.

Rams track and field ready for life in the FVC

Success is something the Grayslake girls track and field team is used to.

"When this year's seniors were freshmen, we started the string of four-straight Northwest Suburban Conference titles. This year's team is very competitive, but young," said Rams coach Joel Peebles.

The Rams' indoor portion of the season has had its share of success. The Rams scored 28 points for sixth place at Highland Park's meet.

The hurdles have attracted many an interested athlete.

The relay team of Vanessa Nyland, junior Kathy Ziubriak, Treleni Saearingen finished first.

"It seems we have all the hurdlers here at once. We have a ton of kids interested in hurdling," said Peebles.

Junior Antoinette Panariella and Claire DeChant are also ready to contribute as hurdlers.

The Rams' athletes come from far and wide to participate in Grayslake's first Fox Valley Conference track season. Ziubriak is from Poland while Saearingen is from Spring Grove, Ill.

The 4 x 800 relay team is off to a good start, with a third place at Highland Park. Michele Tessman, senior, senior Joanne Reiland and sister Jaime Reiland, a sophomore and Senior Laura Tipton make up that group.

The Rams have several sprinters, led by Ellen Marcinak, a junior. She also competes in the 800 meter run.

"She won the 45 meters at Highland Park. She is faster and can run a wide range of events. She is just faster and more mature," said Peebles.

Augmented with a new field house, the Rams have been boosted by a three-meet indoor season. They also beat Richmond-Burton indoors.

They make their FVC debut on April 6.

Boys: "We hope to be in the upper third of the conference and get as many as possible to state," said Peebles.

Senior Jeff Hagen is back in the long jump and sprints. Senior Dan Turner, distance specialist, returns and is a team leader after qualifying for state last year.

The Rams are not lacking for numbers, as 40 tried out for the girls team, 36 for the boys.

The boys open outdoors April 7 at Wauconda with St. Viator as well.

She is able to use her websites to help

Richard Jenkins of Maki and Associates Heating and Air-Conditioning, Inc., 460 Main, described their full service heating and cooling offerings. Homes and light industrial applications are the market they serve. "We specialize in new conidential," he said.

Thelen Sand and Gravel, Inc.,
28955 West Route 173, set up a display of their sands, gravels, rocks, and services with concrete. This is a 50-year old company from which to buy 10 ton boulders or pounds of dirt which they make from compost. "It's the largest site in the State of Illinois," Alan Bednar said of the company's

Habitat for Humanity needs skills beyond construction

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Habitat for Humanity in Lake County can use help from all interested people and organizations in Antioch.

The Habitat for Humanity home building program has created 25 homes in Lake County in the past several years and will build ten more this summer in Waukegan.

Julie Donovan, executive director of the county Habitat for Humanity organization, offered the invitation to get involved at the March 26 meeting of the Antioch Rotary Club.

"I would like to encourage you to consider being part of our volunteer work force," she told Rotarians at the end of her presentation. However, she also told them that there were needs that people and organizations could fulfill that do not involve construction.

For those with home building skills or those who are merely interested in helping to build a home, the organization has a place for them. "Our workdays are generally very enjoyable. We try to make them fun," she said. "We normally have a lot of really good food."

Donovan asked that the members remember the organization in their prayers. She said there were other behind the scenes ways to help.

"That is things like: making a video, helping with computers or finance, or working with our families—teaching them about budgeting and some of the home maintenance skills they're going to need, writing for our newsletter. Whatever it is you enjoy doing and might be willing to share with Habitat, we can talk with you and see if there's a way to make that work," Donovan said.

"Our board has challenged us to aim for 50 houses a year," she said. "The biggest challenge of that is finding land in this county on which to build."

Another factor is skilled labor. "We don't have enough leadership," she told the club. Habitat needs more people with home building skills in all trades. To resolve the problem, the organization is attempting to create a corps of skilled volunteers.

Three criteria are used to select people for whom homes are built. "The first is: need for decent housing." She said, "In this county, many are living in places that are rotten."

People have to be able to buy the home. "The families buy the house using a 25 year mortgage." She said, "We don't give the houses away."

"They have to be willing to be a partner with Habitat." Future homeowners help build their own home.

"In the process, of course, they learn a great deal about their house," Donovan said.

"We build the houses with volunteers, and we build the houses with donations," she said. "By the time we are done, we have a house that we can sell to a family for about $60,000."

Donovan said that, nationally, only 0.8 percent of Habitat homeowners have had foreclosures and only 3 percent have been resold. In Lake County there have been no foreclosures or home resales.

"The vast majority of people do not move," she said.

Habitat for Humanity in Lake County is located in Waukegan and can be reached at 847-623-1020.

Items for the Hawthorn Melody Farms exhibit are arranged by Karen Fasano, left, of the Cuneo Museum staff and Karen Beasley, Cuneo Education Coordinator and exhibit co-coordinator. The displays features several photos, post cards and other memorabilia from the family amusement park which was operated near the Cuneo Museum and Gardens from 1948 to 1969. In the foreground is a visitors registration book from the farm which will be used to register visitors to the exhibit. — Photo by Sandy Bressner

Milking the past

The current Cuneo Museum and Gardens exhibit brings Hawthorn Melody Dairy Farm back to life for a generation of curious baby boomers

By ELIZABETH EAKEN
Staff Reporter

Long before today's celebrities like Brett Favre and Brooke Shields began hawking the benefits of milk, Hopalong Cassidy, the White Sox's Nellie Fox, Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis were doing milk commercials for Libertyville's Hawthorn Melody Farms.

In those days, the Libertyville farm was the destination point for thousands of Chicagoland school children who came on field trips to visit a dairy farm complete with a tour of a state-of-the-art milking facility, petting zoo and even a frontier village.

Between 1948 and 1969, Hawthorn Melody Farms operated near what is now the Cuneo Museum and Gardens, where the popularity of the former family amusement park is being showcased in a special exhibit.

Hawthorn Melody Farms was located on the estate of John Cuneo, Sr., and encompassed 7.5 square miles. The farm was situated to the north of the museum where Gregg's Landing subdivision is now being built.

The exhibit was coordinated by John Byrne, chief operations officer at the museum, and Karen Beasley, education coordinator. Byrne grew up on the farm where his father, Laurence Byrne, was the farm manager.

The exhibit chronicles the farm's heyday as a dairy and tourist attraction.

"Hawthorn Melody Farm still sparks a feeling of nostalgia and a warm memory in those who visited here as children 40 years ago," wrote Byrne in a booklet he authored for the exhibit.

The museum's new executive director, Jim Bert, decided last fall the exhibit would be a great way to revive the history of the area. Byrne and Beasley worked diligently beginning last October to ready the exhibit for its premier in March.

Beasley said the duo began contemplating an exhibit because museum employees often heard visitors reminiscing that the grounds were once part of Hawthorn Melody Farms.

"It kind of got us excited because a lot of people on tours remembered it," said Beasley.

The baby boomer generation grew up visiting the farm, which included tours of the dairy's state-of-the-art milking parlor, a visit to a mini-zoo, a frontier town accessible by a train ride, a hall of champions featuring sports memorabilia and lunch, including ice cream and fresh cold milk, on the banks of Lake Charles.

The demise of Hawthorn Melody Farms park is attributed to the sale of the farm and declining interest in the type of entertainment it offered. Changing times brought about amusement parks and flashier entertainment venues.

The exhibit tells the history of the farm with photos mounted on the walls and descriptions of the park. One section of the exhibit includes copies of all the celebrity milk ads promoting Hawthorn Melody milk.

During the course of researching the exhibit, Byrne came across the name of a photographer who had shot celebrity endorsements for Hawthorn Melody milk. He located the photographer, George Kufrin, who is still living in the Chicago area. Kufrin had saved his film, and he produced the negatives of many photos he'd taken at the farm.

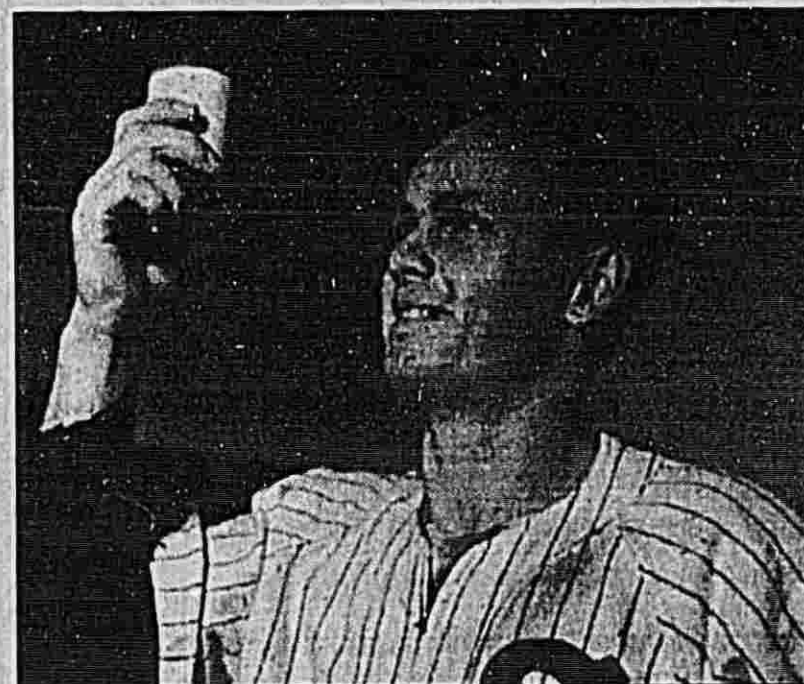

Some of the celebrities memorialized in the dairy ads include Studs Terkel, Mel Torme, Dean Martin, Jerry Lewis, and Nellie Fox and Eddie Robinson of the Chicago White Sox.

In the center of the exhibit hall, Byrne and Beasley have assembled a collection of items related to Hawthorn Melody Farms and Dairy. There are old milk cartons, milk box tabs, milk bottles and many photos.

Hawthorn Melody began life as Hawthorn Farms. It was purchased in 1937

PAGAN

ONE WHO HAS NO RELIGION

Did You Know?

WHILE COSMETICS ARE BELIEVED TO HAVE ORIGINATED IN THE ORIENT, THEY WERE USED IN ANCIENT GREECE AND IMPERIAL ROME.

THE GRID ON A GLOBE REPRESENTS LONGITUDE, THE VERTICAL LINES DRAWN FROM POLE TO POLE, AND LATITUDE, THE HORIZONTAL LINES DRAWN PARALLEL TO THE EQUATOR. WITH THIS GRID, ANY POSITION ON EARTH'S SURFACE CAN BE SPECIFIED.

HOROSCOPE

Aries - March 21/April 20

Don't let your temper get the best of you when it comes to a business deal. Think before you act. Those involved want the same things that you do; they just can't express it as well as you. A loved one has a question for you. Don't leave him or her hanging. Just give an honest answer.

Taurus - April 21/May 21

Bite your tongue when it comes to a family discussion this week, Taurus. Your harsh words are not going to help the situation. Just try to work with those involved to settle things. That special someone calls it quits. Don't get upset. It wasn't a good relationship and you know it.

Gemini - May 22/June 21

You don't know which way to turn early in the week. So many people want something from you, and you can't seem to escape the mayhem. Try to help whomever you can, but don't run yourself ragged. Think of what you need to do too. Things will calm down by the end of the week. Libra plays a key role on Wednesday.

Cancer - June 22/July 22

You're in a funk early in the week, Cancer, and you just can't seem to get out of it. Others try to cheer you up, but this really just irritates you. Keep your anger in check; they just want you to feel better. Take some time to sort out your feelings. It is sure to help you feel better.

Leo - July 23/August 23

Don't let your pride get in the way when it comes to a project you're working on. You can't do it all by yourself; ask for help. People are more than willing to work with you. An old friend re-enters your life. Catch up with him or her — and don't be afraid to get close again. Gemini plays a key role.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

While you just want some privacy this week, Virgo, that's the one thing you're not going to get. Loved ones are worried about you. Don't get upset with them. They really have your best interest at heart. That special someone gives you a meaningful gift. Think about your true feelings before accepting it.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

Your pleasant nature is put to the test early in the week, Libra. It seems as if everyone is working against you. You encounter roadblock after roadblock every time you try to do something. Do what you can. Things will be better soon. A close friend needs your advice about a relationship. Be honest.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

People try to prey on your naivete early in the week, Scorpio. Look at all the facts before you agree to do something. Things just don't add up. Turn to loved ones for guidance. They are always there for you. A friend has a surprise for you. Enjoy it. Capricorn plays a key role late in the week.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

You have a lot of problems early in the week, Sagittarius. Try to look at the bright side of things, and do the best that you can. Things aren't really as bad as they seem. A loved one needs to talk. Be there for him or her. You can be a good listener when you want to be.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

This week offers you the perfect opportunity to get ahead professionally. Take it! Now's your chance to show others how talented you really are. A secret is revealed at a family gathering. While it is shocking, give those involved your love and support. Pisces plays an important role.

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

You feel like a fish out of water this week, Aquarius. You just don't seem to fit in with those around you. Don't fret over the situation. Your efforts solve a problem later in the week, showing everyone that not only do you belong, but you can be a true leader. That special someone needs to talk to you. Don't get nervous.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

Show compassion to a loved one in need. He or she is in the middle of a difficult situation. Do your best to help him or her out. Your efforts really will be appreciated. A close friend imposes on your generosity. Don't be afraid to say that he or she has crossed the line.

A moment to say...

Thank You

I'd like to take this time to say thank you for 15 wonderful years of being in business as Jerry's Parkway Foods in downtown Grayslake. It is time for us to move on. We had reached a point where because of retirement and relocation of some of our key people, we could not deliver to you our customers what we had been for the past 15 years. I had felt we reached a crossroads where our banquet and catering business had become so big and important for our growth for the future that we needed to make a change with our Grayslake location. Many of you know we operate three very successful banquet halls, Parkway Banquets at Renwood Golf Course in Round Lake Beach, Parkway Banquets at Antioch Golf Club in Antioch, and Parkway by the Lake on Long Lake in Ingleside. These locations have become more and more a demand on me and my staff's time, and in a reluctant, but eye opening revelation, I had come to the realization that I did not want to be in the grocery business anymore. The demands of the grocery business and the banquet business made it such that I was working 80 to 90 hours per week, and I knew this could not continue. I felt our growth and future was in banquets and catering, so as of the first of March I had begun the process to convert our Grayslake location to another banquet hall. I already had a discussion with the village about building code requirements and liquor licenses, but with the advice of my attorneys, we allowed the unpleasant but inevitable to occur with the closing of our store. I could have fought this process, but I reached a point where I said I don't want to be in the grocery business anymore. By letting it go the way we did, downtown Grayslake still will have a store, my employees would still have jobs that would not have been available if we converted the location, and certain leases and obligations would go away. Although an unpleasant process, and certainly the papers love to print sensational but untrue and distorted headlines and numbers, this still represented the best for downtown Grayslake for its future. I would hope that you support our successor and help to keep downtown Grayslake a viable part of the future.

For our loyal employees and customers and everyone who supported us for the many years, I say a sincere Thank You! We always tried to be good and supportive of all the churches and organizations and charitable causes that ever came to us for any donation and support, and I was proud to be the first to always say yes, we'll be glad to help you, and I wouldn't change any of that. We always tried to be good people to provide everything from home delivery to senior citizen and organization discounts and many other services that make Grayslake the quality town we were proud to be a part of. But now its time to move on and pursue our banquet and catering business that is so huge for us. We look forward to being a part of the Grayslake and surrounding area for many years to come, and we look forward to serving you in any form of catering and banquets and parties at our locations or certainly at yours. Thank you for allowing us to be a part of your community.

The right to bear arms—in kindergarten?

The Civil War may be long over, but I think there are still some real philosophical differences between the North and South.

I realized this when I was watching Prime Time the other night. They were doing a story about the tragic shootings down south at a grade school in Jonesboro, Ark., and they showed

LIFE'S A BEAR

an old home video of one of the children allegedly involved in the shooting. It was the boy's 5th or 6th birthday, and the video showed him receiving a RIFLE for his birthday. Not a toy rifle...a REAL RIFLE!

According to the boy's relatives, this is not an unusual occurrence in Arkansas' rural communities. Guns are everywhere down there, it seems, and children are taught from a young age how to shoot.

Of course, that's not to say there aren't plenty of guns in the cities up north here. The difference, I think, is that in the cities, children mostly obtain guns through gangs or criminals.

Down south, they often get them as GIFTS from their parents!

Whoa. Call me a-damn Yankee, but I cannot imagine, for example, buying my daughter Sammie a real rifle for her 5th birthday come next November. Heck, I don't even trust her with a steak knife at dinner.

Granted, my daughter might like to have a gun for her next birthday. But this is definitely outweighed by the fact that I would like to be ALIVE at MY next birthday.

Not only would I like to be alive, but I'd like our pets to be alive as well. For instance, Sammie has asked me several times if I can tell her exactly when our dog Foxy (who is four) is going to kick the bucket. The reason she asks this question is because she would like to have a puppy and she knows that she cannot get one as long as our current dog is still breathing.

My usual answer to her question is that, hopefully, Foxy will be here for another nine or 10 years at least. That generally satisfies Sammie's curiosity about the dog issue, after which she'll change the subject:—So, when is the cat going to die?

Picture now, if you will, an imaginary 5 year old Sammie who has learned to shoot with her very own birthday rifle:

—Mommy? When can I get a puppy?

—Honey, I've told you this over and over. We can only take care of one dog.

Someday, when Foxy is gone, you can have a puppy.

Silence for a moment. Then, Mommy—I'm going out in the back yard to shoot some tin cans, okay?

—Sure dear - go ahead.

Sammie takes her gun from the rack and a half dozen bullets and as she goes out to the back yard, she holds the door open just a little longer than necessary - just long enough for the dog to escape into the back yard with her.

She sets up the cans near Foxy's favorite sniffing spot. And just as the dog walks behind them, she begins her target practice.

OOPS.

—Hey, Mommy, says Sammie excitedly, as she comes running back into the house. —I guess we can get that puppy now.

Sort of a scary imaginary picture, isn't it? But not because it depicts an evil child with a rifle.

On the contrary. It depicts a normal child who, like her peers, believes that Wile E. Coyote can blow himself up with Acme dynamite today, and still be alive and well at Six Flags Great America tomorrow.

In short, a normal child who can't distinguish cartoons from reality, and is armed with her own rifle. Courtesy of Mom and Dad.

Now that's scary.

IN THE KITCHEN

Time to crack that egg shell

Many readers responded to our query about how to neatly shell hard-boiled eggs for deviled eggs. Many of the responses included similar information, which follows:

Grayslake resident E. Peterson stated that she's had good luck in shelling hard-boiled eggs by using the following directions. First, she says, don't use fresh eggs. Eggs that are at least one to two weeks old after purchasing are the best.

Put eggs in a pan and cover with cold water. Bring to a full, rolling boil and cover immediately. Turn off the burner and let sit for 15 minutes. Empty pan of hot water and run cold water over eggs for 3-4 minutes. Cool again for 15 minutes. Shells should come off easily after cracking. Also, egg yolks will not turn a dark color.

Mary Ann Goecke of Fox Lake writes, "If I know I will be needing hard-boiled eggs for deviled eggs, I leave the eggs at room temperature for a day or two, because then they are easier to peel."

We'll end this week's column with a delicious deviled egg recipe:

DEVILED EGGS

Ingredients:

Eggs (if you want to feed 10 people, boil 20 eggs, and increase as needed)

Mustard
Mayonnaise
Garlic Powder
Salt
Pepper

Directions: Boil eggs using one of the techniques above. Shell and rinse eggs. Cut eggs in half length-wise and put yolks into medium-sized bowl. Crush yolks with fork and add spices to taste. Start by adding 3 tablespoons of mayonnaise and 1-1/2 teaspoons of mustard. Blend with mixer until smooth. Taste and add more mayonnaise and mustard until desired taste and texture. Garnish with parsley and paprika and serve.

Spring has arrived—serious gardening time is here

Spring has arrived. What a relief, winter has past and spring has sprung. This is a very busy season for we gardeners. There are many tasks to be accomplished. Remember when the rain comes that "April showers bring May flowers." It is important to get rain in the spring, so bear with it.

While I was cleaning up my flowerbeds, I was amazed at how well the perennials have overwintered. Many are quite large, and look very healthy. The roses are already sprouting new foliage and the canes have stayed surprisingly green. There is not much dead wood to prune. I'm hoping that is a good sign, that this will be a year for knock-out flowers. As the weather warms and providing the soil is dry, begin to turn over vegetable and flower beds. I use a spiked fork. I think it works great in breaking up the big clumps of dirt. While you are turning the gardens over, be sure you add a generous amount of organic material, you can never add too much. Save kitchen scraps, (no meat by products.) for the compost pile. If you don't have a compost pile, start one. If your garden is very large, you may want to rent or borrow a roto-tiller, it will make the job much easier.

Lettuce, onions, radishes, spinach, broccoli, and sweet peas can be sown now. If you sow some seeds every two weeks, you will have a continuous crop well into the summer.

As soon as possible, as the perennials are already up and running, fertilize them, I use a fish emulsion fertilizer, it does a great job. My plants respond really well with it. Now is a good time to purchase perennial stock. Look for healthy, well established plants. Resist the urge to buy annuals too early. If the weather gets bad, and they cannot be planted shortly after purchase they become root bound, dry out and do not perform well in the garden.

Summer blooming perennials can be divided now. It may be a good time to ask your neighbor for a clump of that Astibille, or Daisy you like.

My geraniums that I have overwintered, I have begun to take cuttings and am starting many plants from the parent plants. All you need to do is snip pieces of the parent plant, dip them in a rooting hormone, such as rootone, and plant in a light potting mixture, and they will establish a strong root system in no time.

This is also the time to get the lawn mower ready for the summer, maybe it needs a tune up or some minor repair, take it in before all the handy men get too busy. It's time to check out your gardening tools, see if they are all working properly, maybe you need to purchase some new things. You can keep an eye open for upcoming sales. There are always seasonal sales. I hate to pay full price for anything.

If we do not get enough rain keep seedlings and flowers watered. Follow directions when fertilizing and keep an eye out for insects. With the mild winter, I am afraid we are going to see tons of bugs. Get out the hot pepper spray. If applicable protect young plants from late frosts. Plastic sheeting or cloches made from plastic gallon milk jugs work real good. You know we have had frosts as late as May 26th. And remember we have to deal with El Niño. Get busy, until next week, peace. Go ahead—get your hands dirty.

Hawaii For The Adventurer

by JIM WARNKEN
President, North Star Travel

For many, thoughts of the Hawaiian Islands conjure up visions of lazy days of lounging under a palm tree on a white sand beach with only the sound of gentle ocean waves.

Well, Hawaii can certainly be that if you wish. But for the more adventurous, the islands offer challenges ranging from beginner to expert. Here are a few of my favorites.

In the expert category, try skiing (yes, snow skiing) down a 13,796-foot volcano! The "Ski Shop Hawaii" will provide you with the necessary equipment and clothing and transport you by four-wheel drive transport to the top of Mauna Kea (white mountain) on the big island of Hawaii for a five-mile untracked run. Contact them at P.O. Box 8232, Honolulu, HI 96830-8232, for more information.

Less challenging, but no less exciting is a trip by Zodiac (ocean-going rubber rafts) to the astonishingly beautiful Na Pali Cliffs on the island of Kauai. After a voyage which includes crashing headlong into waves curling along the cliffs, you will arrive at one of many secluded beaches inaccessible by land. Contact Na Pali Zodiac at Box 456, Hanalei, HI 96741.

How about a guided, week-long adventure of back-packing around Maui or Kauai with a world-famous author and outdoorsman? You should be able to hike six to ten miles a day and be in good health. Contact Hawaiian Outdoor Adventures at P.O. Box 30697, Long Beach, CA 90853.

Your travel agent can, of course, help you plan these and other Hawaiian adventures.

If you want to relax on the beach, more power to you. But for those seeking a little adventure, try Hawaii's rugged side.

MOVIE REVIEW

Newtons don't give a fig about the law

"The Newton Boys" is a poor man's "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," with a lesser script, no raindrops, a mediocre director and also missing Robert Redford and Paul Newman.

But all is not lost as the latest bank robbery epic has some redeeming factors in its young stars, especially Matthew McConaughey, Ethan Hawke and Dwight Yoakam.

This Robin Hood of the roaring south film (actually set in the 1920s along with history's other great bank robberies), though for the most part shallow in nature and character depth, has some classic robbery scenes.

The movie delves into the wilderness of the 1920s via the memories of some of the bank robbers, ravaged by life and age.

With a strong "Good Old Boy Texas Theme," "The Newton Boys," who are depicted as lovable rascals just having a good time taking from the rich to invest for themselves, did their dirty deeds in the dark of night.

McConaughey, Hawke, Skeet Ulrich, and Vincent D'Onofrio are the real life Newtons, who are probably less famous than their counterparts like Bonnie and Clyde, Dillinger, Baby Face Nelson, etc., have Yoakam playing their explosive genius.

Television star of "ER," Julianna Margulies does a stint as McConaughey's girlfriend.

The best thing that can be said for the Newtons is that they set out to kill no one, taking precautions to keep it that way. There is also a snappy bit of dialogue here and there as the Newton Boys and company play their fun and games until the seriousness of their ventures dawns.

For the most part the enjoyment is almost as shallow as the characters on the screen, so we are giving this "PG 13" rated film 2.5 stars out of a possible five. Wish it could have been better!—By Gloria Davis

CRITIC'S CHOICE

'Blues for an Alabama Sky' an insightful piece

New York's Harlem neighborhood stood at a precipice in 1930. After a period of renaissance, this black community, slowly but unrelentingly, began to slide, its spirit shaken to the core by the Great Depression.

"Blues for an Alabama Sky," a soulful and at times explosive play by Pearl Cleage, vividly captures this time in history. Her two-hour and 40-minute drama focuses on the struggles of four friends—and the trials that come among them.

The central character, Angel, is a blues singer who just lost her job at the Cotton Club; she refuses to look back at the tribulations and mistakes from her past, and in doing so, fails to learn to avoid the pitfalls that keep her from achieving happiness. Jacqueline Williams plays the part for all it's worth, so convincingly that one wants to take her hand and shout: "Wake up, girl. Think before you act!"

Dexter Zollicoffer gives a standup performance as Guy, her supportive gay costume designer roommate whose dream is to work in Paris for Josephine Baker at the Folies. LaFern Watkins plays the neighbor, an idealistic 25-year-old who has made a commitment to follow in Margaret Sanger's footsteps and open a family planning clinic—as controversial endeavor given the mistrust of those promoting birth control. The fourth friend is Doc "Let the Good Times Roll" (played by Phillip VanLear), a party animal who is also a dedicated Harlem doctor.

The spoiler in this little circle is played by Morocco Omari, a conservative Christian from Alabama who sees Angel as some kind of replacement for the wife who died during childbirth.

The action, from laughter to tears, from carousing to caressing, takes place in an intimate apartment house, artfully created on stage. Cleage has an ear for the rhythm and cadence of the language and uses it with flair.

MILKING: Museum exhibit brings dairy to life by John Cuneo, Sr., owner of the Cuneo Press. It was the former estate of Samuel Insull, founder of Commonwealth Edison and partner of Thomas Edison.

Cuneo established a model farm on the property which encompassed 1,200 acres. All that remains of the former estate is the Italian Renaissance mansion and gardens which are part of the museum.

In assembling the exhibit, Byrne and Beasley dug up artifacts from the museum's coffers and solicited mementos from the public.

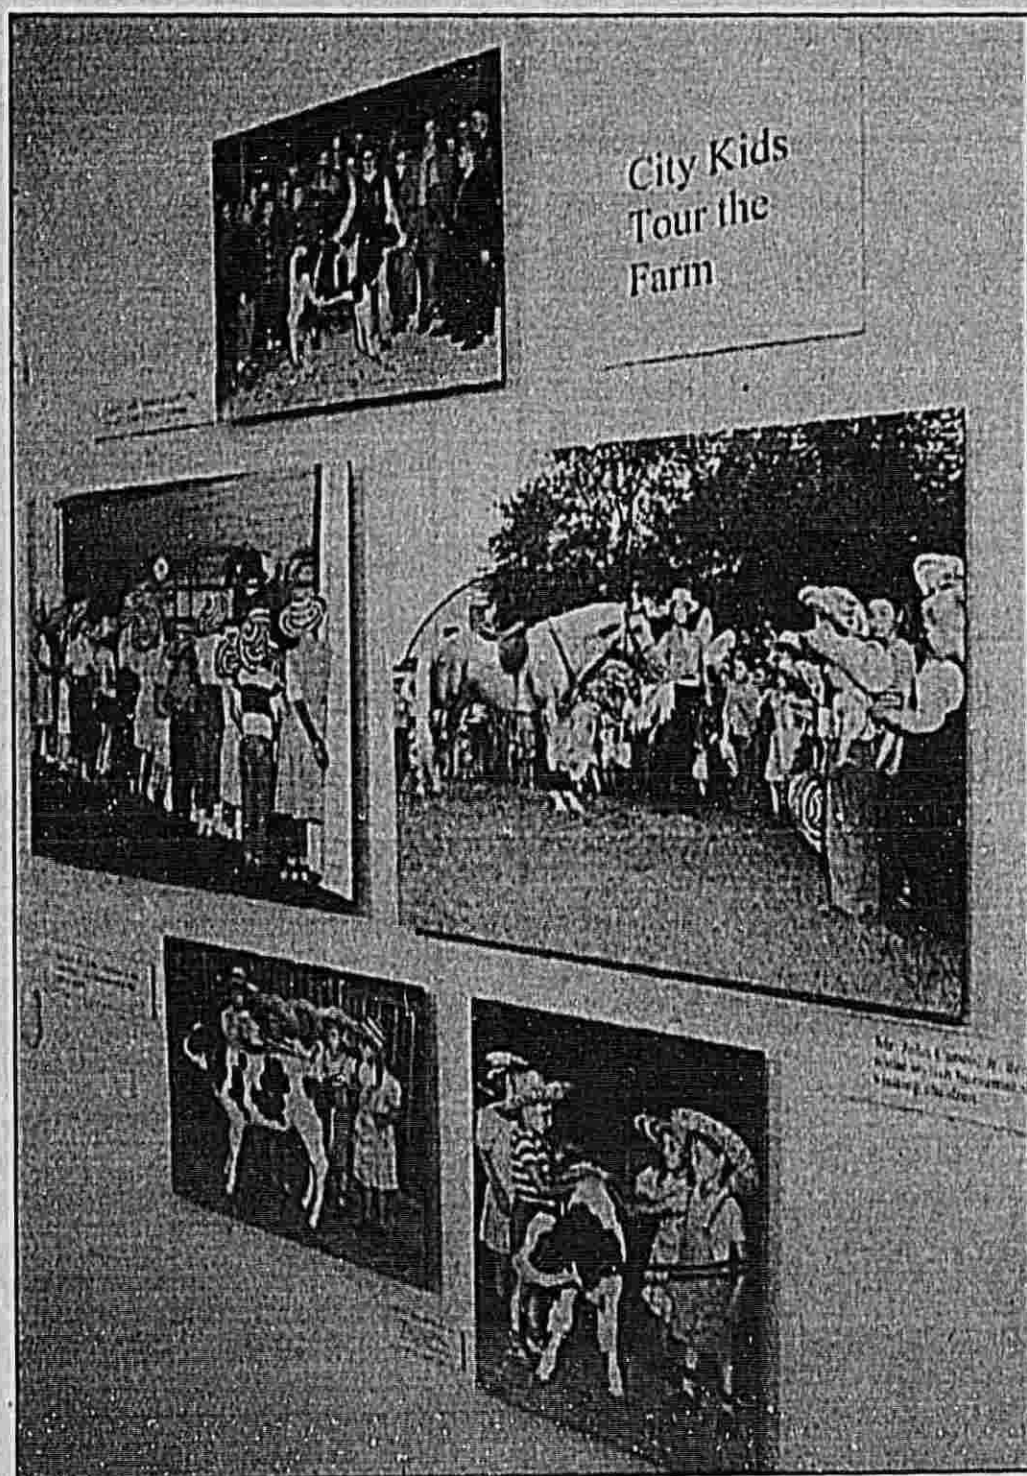

Beasley said she thought they would get a lot of old milk bottles in the mail and little else, but they fared well in loans from the public. One item Beasley is still searching for is an insulated porch box for milk deliveries bearing the Hawthorn Melody logo.

Many people sent letters and postcards of the farm which they've kept all these years. The staff even unearthed old guest registers from the basement for the display.

College of Lake County architecture student David Hernandez is in the midst of building a model of the farm.

Beasley said they hope this exhibit will be one that will be resurrected over the years, because the history of the farm is an important part of the museum and Lake County.

Cuneo Museum and Gardens is located at 1350 N. Milwaukee Avenue. The exhibit is currently open Tuesday through Sunday. Admission is included with admission to the conservatory gardens and grounds. Historic mansion tours are additional. For information call the events office at 362-3047.

Antioch baseball lover invents Pro Cut to improve ball contact

Antioch's Tim Nolan has invented, and received patents for, a weight that can be attached to the handle of a baseball bat. Players can learn to use the device to improve their hitting by visiting the Pro Cut Training Center in Lake Villa.

By attaching a weight at that location, rather than at the other end as is traditionally done, the balance point of the bat changes. Nolan believes that change makes all the difference in how players can train themselves to turn pitched balls into long drives to the outfield.

"I guarantee you, we're going to see .400 hitters," said baseball player Nolan. He expects to be part of the reason why baseball players will be having seasons that only Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox managed to have in the past half century. Once.

Adding weight to the knob of a bat is not new. "(Players) put weight on the knob of a bat and they taped it on. I saw a bat that had that and I really liked it," he said.

"Within three months of me feeling that weight, I designed my first Pro Cut that fit right on the knob of a bat."

Nolan now has three patents on the pro cut and three more patents pending.

His product brochure explains what he has done in simple terms. "By placing a Pro Cut on the handle end of your bat, the balance point shifts toward the pivot point, encouraging a good power swing. The effect is so dramatic that, when professionals try Pro Cut for the first time, they immediately smile with approval. Pro Cut makes your swing feel sweeter."

His company, at 39411 Route 83 between Lake Villa and Antioch, not only builds and packages the product, but also works with young and professional players to help them condition their batting swing.

Flatlander's features blues, pop & rock in schedule for April

Flatlander's Restaurant and Brewery, Lincolnshire, will feature mostly blues and pop/rock for its entertainment in April with one exception.

That exception is a big one, said Tim Lukoski, Flatlander's general manager. He said Special Consensus, formed in 1975, with its bluegrass and acoustic country music will perform April 11.

Special Consensus has performed throughout Europe, North and South America and even islands such as Iceland. The group has appeared on national U.S. radio and television, on many college campuses, appeared with symphony orchestras and at festivals that includes being a hit at the Chicago Country Music Festival and Summerfest in Milwaukee.

Lukoski said sizable crowds are attending the Flatlander's entertainment events because of the warm reception given to the performers that reflects throughout the Tap Room where the music is played. On April 23, the usual crowd enjoying the music will be joined by some 80 people after the first Brewmaster's Dinner ends at the restaurant which features Midwest cuisine.

People who want to take part in the special dinner with food and complimentary beer, free entertainment, lectures and discussion about beer and food may do so by calling the restaurant. That night Pat McCurdy with his Irish humor and pop/rock music will be performing as a regular monthly feature enjoyed by Flatlander's patrons.

All of the music starts at 9 p.m. and goes to about midnight. The entertainment schedule for April is as follows:

- Saturday, April 4: 3rd Degree, the blues.

- Thursday, April 9: Allen Saltzman with his pop/rock band.

- Saturday, April 11: Special Consensus with their outstanding and real cool bluegrass, acoustic country.

- Thursday, April 16: Black Alley Blues playing the blues.

- Saturday, April 18: The Manatees playing pop/rock.

- Thursday, April 23: The outstanding Irish humor of Pat McCurdy and his pop/rock music.

- Saturday, April 25: The Cleavers playing pop/rock.

- Thursday, April 30: The music of Scrawl with its brand of blues.

Flatlander's is located at the intersection of Milwaukee Avenue, Olde Half Day Road and Route 45 at the north end of downtown Lincolnshire, about two miles west of the I-94 exit onto Route 22 and Half Day Road. For more information, call 821-1234.

Examples date from 1717 to the present. This historic overview provides a fascinating documentary of our dynamic interaction with nature—where it began and how it has evolved over the years.

A luncheon, catered by Chef Paul, will precede the lecture program and will feature a menu consisting of a Beef Tenderloin Popover, Pasta Pesto; Salad with gorgonzola cheese, pears and walnuts; fruit tart and muffins.

'Treatment options used to be very limited. If you have not been to the doctor for your allergies in 15 years, it is time to get reevaluated'

Nasally challenged

If allergies to airborne particles cause you misery, there is hope, but you must begin your treatment now

By NEAL TUCKER
Executive Editor

It is not by accident that Dr. Cheryl Lynn Walker studies allergies and their treatment for a living. In fact you could say she has a nose for it.

Like 25 percent of all Americans, there were at least two times a year when her eyes, nose and throat declared mutiny and she was downright miserable. But that is not the case any more.

"Medication over the counter can be effective with mild symptoms but it must be used regularly each day (during the allergy season)," Walker said by phone from her practice at the University of Northwestern Hospital where she is also on staff for research and teaching.

Now, Walker makes the study and treatment of allergies her main focus, something for which the encumbered in Lake County may be thankful. With its rural characteristics, Lake County is a haven for dust, pollen and mold, the bane to any allergy sufferer.

Walker's interest in medicine began at an early age as she absconded every science and chemistry set she could get her hands on, even though they were originally intended to be gifts to her brother. From the age of 7 or 8 she knew she wanted to be a doctor, then went on to finish studies at Duke University.

She later became interested in the study and treatment of allergies because she had a personal interest and she also knew success in the field would bring an immediate impact on the quality of life for her patients. She and others in her field of study are making progress. Most importantly, now there are the over the counter medications that sufficiently decrease the effects of allergies by suppressing the body's natural tendency to attack foreign particles such as dust and spores.

The allergy season in the spring is usually into full swing by Easter so timing of treatment is a critical issue. Walker said if the patient waits until the allergy symptoms take hold, then it's already too late to achieve the full benefits of the medication.

"Often with medicine started before the season, the allergy sufferer will find their allergic reactions greatly reduced," Walker added.

Too, some of her treatment recommendations come simply from common sense. If followed, her advice will help the mild sufferers who choose to forgo medication and will enhance the treatment of those who do require medication.

"Decrease your exposure to something that bothers you," Walker advised.

For those who exercise, this means jogging or riding in the afternoon when the pollen count is lower or exercising only indoors where air conditioning can act as a filter. When doing yard work, wear a filtering mask. And the most common piece of advice is to use your own natural filter by breathing through your nose.

Finally, Walker encourages people to see their primary care physician to update themselves on treatments.

"Treatment options used to be very limited. If you have not been to the doctor for your allergies in 15 years, it is time to get reevaluated," Walker said.

TIPS FOR ALLERGY SUFFERERS

- Keep windows closed.
- If possible, use air-conditioning to keep pollen and mold spores from entering home.
- Filter air from heating vents with cheesecloth.
- Vacuum and dust often using a damp or oiled cloth (though not with the allergy sufferer in the room).
- Use pillows made with synthetic materials.
- Cover mattresses, box springs and pillows with nonallergic casings.
- Select washable blankets and bedspreads, not down or chenille.
- Remove books from bedroom, or primary living room, as they are primary dust collectors. If removal is not an option, dust books often.
- Use an indoor dryer to dry clothes. Hanging clothes on an outdoor line will give pollen the chance to cling to fabrics.
- In warmer climates, move mattresses and pillows into the sun at least once a month. Warm, dry air helps filter dust.
- Allergy causing dust mites can be eliminated by washing sheets and pillowcases in hot water twice a week.
- Minimize outdoor activity during windy spring/late summer days.
- If the allergic person must do yardwork, she or he should wear a dust mask to avoid inhaling pollen and mold spores.
- Drive with windows closed.

Safe Exercise During Allergy Season

- Before beginning an exercise regimen, talk to your health care provider about special precautions to take.
- Breathe through the nose. Because the nasal passages contain a natural filtering and humidifying system, it is important to exercise when the nose and sinus are clear. Unobstructed nasal passages will keep out allergens and maintain consistent air temperature and humidity.
- Avoid exercising in places where allergens are present. People with pollen allergies should avoid jogging near open fields. Those who react to dust mites and mold spores should designate an exercise room in their homes where allergens are lowest.
- If it is not possible to designate safe areas for exercise, additional precautions may be necessary, such as wearing a mask or taking medication prior to physical activity.

Folk Remedies for Allergies*

- Swallow a spider.
- Chew on a honey comb.
- Wear a bag full of cooked onions around your neck.
- Tie a large red onion to your bedpost at night.
- Turn orange peels inside out and insert them into the nostrils.

Pollen Inhaled

Exploding Mast Cell

Pollen Attaches to Mast Cell

Sneeze

When allergies such as pollen, dust, animal dander and mold are inhaled, they travel through the nasal cavity and attach themselves to mast cells. These mast cells, found in all body tissue including the lining of the nose, contain histamines. In a person suffering from allergies, the mast cells swell in response to the attaching allergens, and eventually burst, releasing histamines. The histamines then cause the allergic reactions of sneezing, congestion, itchy, watery eyes, etc. —Graphics courtesy of Nasalcrom

Is the 'Golden Rule' dead?

With the recent tragedy in Arkansas, I felt it was important to re-run a column I wrote in the past. My heart and prayers go out to the families who have suffered through this incredible tragedy...

Road Rage. Gangs. The litany of horror stories on the news each night. What is going on with human beings these days? I see it all the time. In the Grocery store, someone pushes in front of you to be first in line. On the road, someone cuts you off and parks in front of you at 20 miles an hour under the speed limit (with a smile on their face) or the someone else who feels that his or her time is more important than yours and tailgates so closely that an accident is a great possibility. What about the someone that drives under the influence and takes innocent lives. What about the salesman who feels great because he is great at swindling people out of more money than he should have. How bout the thousands of frivolous lawsuits each day so that people can make some free money. Unfortunately, I could go on literally forever.

What do all these things and many others have in common? The lack of common decency toward other human beings. When I see these things, I have to wonder what kinds of things we want to present about ourselves and what kinds of messages we are teaching our kids. Why are we so indifferent, at best, and downright mean, at worst, to each other?

The Golden Rule: Treat

PARENT'S PLACE

Sherri Singer, Psy.D.

Others As You'd Like To Be Treated. This seems to be old news much like bell bottoms and clogs. I don't know if times have changed or my perspective has, but bad behavior has never seemed as frequent and serious as it does now.

I write many weeks about kids behavior and how to maintain it. This week I'm writing about adult behavior and how to maintain it. It's a sad thing to me that anyone would need to talk about maintaining it, however, when we look around at what out communities look like, the least important things become the forefront while what should be the most important things take a far back burner. Things like decency and compassion. Trust and humanity. Respect and loyalty.

I remember hearing a few years back about how we were then living in the "ME Generation." I understood that to mean that people were more self centered. I will go one step further and call this the "ME FIRST Generation." It seems to me that people are so threatened by anyone else getting ahead of them that the whole concept of watching out for one's fellow man has completely fallen by the wayside.

I see this in schools regularly. Usually, it takes the form of a child who is being picked on

1.) Use the Golden Rule always.
2.) At least once a day (to begin with,—more if you can) try and think of how what you are saying or doing has effected someone else. Is it right or wrong?

3.) Role play at home with your very young children—how to treat people with kindness and respect. These things can be taught when a child is very young and can become normal life perspectives. When a situation comes up in which a natural response of your child's has caused harm to someone, role play with your child about how to rectify it and how to apologize or make it better and then have your child do that.

4.) Be a good example. If you abuse your power over others, be ready to watch your child do the same thing. Also expect to be asked why they can't and you can. This is one area in which I'd expect both parents and kids to follow the same rules.

5.) Practice allowing others to go first without feeling like you have been taken advantage of.

You'll find that the more you practice the art of caring about others, the more you will get a good response from people and everyone will end up feeling better. I have heard people say to me before, "Why should I become nice if the whole world is not?" My answer is this, "It starts with one person and then with two and so on. If no one starts it, it will not happen." Even if only some people are practicing it, it is still an improvement.

I'm not asking anyone to give up standing up for their rights. It is important to make sure that you are not being victimized and smiling while it's happening. I am just suggesting that we could go a long way toward improving relationships between people if people just thought about each other once in a while instead of only themselves.

So, let's have the guy who is tailgating start to think that maybe the person in front of him has a small child in the car and is being extra careful, and "Mr. Tailgater" moves to another lane (without any finger gestures) to be courteous. Let's have the guy who is drinking decide that he doesn't want any people to be "kidless" or "parentless" on account of his behavior and decisions, so he takes a cab. Let's have the person in the Grocery store who is rushing to beat the other person to the line, let that other person go in front because it's a nice thing to do. I saw a bumper sticker once that said, "Practice random acts of kindness." I think we should.

Teenagers pick up on cigar fad

Cigars, made popular by movie stars and cigar bars and promoted by glossy magazines, are catching on among teenagers.

According to a national survey of students in grades 9-12, and surveys in Massachusetts and New York, researchers from the Centers for Disease Control and the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation discovered the following:

- 27 percent of students, or roughly six million teens, said they had smoked at least one cigar within the previous year. The breakdown according to sex was 37 percent of boys compared with 16 percent of girls.

- At least 13 percent of ninth grade students in two New York counties reported smoking a cigar at least once in the 30 days prior to the survey.

- Students who smoked cigars were three times more likely than others to also use cigarettes or smoking tobacco.

- Roughly four percent of boys and 1.2 percent of girls say they consumed more than 50 cigars in the past year.

The survey marks the first time that CDC officials have tried to gauge cigar smoking trends in teenagers.

"It's a phenomenon of the '90s," said Michael Eriksen, director of the CDC's Office on Smoking and Health, in an interview with the Associated Press. "Everywhere you turn, there's a cigar bar or a cigar shop. Kids are very perceptive of what they think cool adults do."

Most states ban cigar sales to minors, but cigars are exempt from U.S. Food and Drug Administration regulations. The FDA says it doesn't have evidence that cigars are marketed to satisfy addiction.

Overall, consumption of larger cigars grew 45 percent from 1993 to 1996, when 4.5 billion cigars were consumed in the United States. In a separate report, the CDC says that the percentage of adults age 34 and older who smoke has remained steady at approximately 25 percent.

"It's definitely an unhealthy trend," says Terri Tiersky, DDS, a general dentist who practices on Chicago's North Side. "Cigars are just as damaging to your health as cigarettes. They cause cancers of the mouth, larynx, esophagus and lung. Cigar smokers have the same risk for emphysema as cigarette smokers. Research links cigars with stroke, heart attacks and lung disease. Cigars produce second-hand smoke, just like cigarettes."

Dentists readily detect the adverse oral effects of tobacco use—cigarettes, cigars, smokeless—during routine examinations and can help patients with tobacco cessation programs.

The Chicago Dental Society strongly supports the regulations adopted by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration to regular tobacco products, categorize nicotine as a drug, and restrict access to tobacco products by children.

Gardening provides health benefits

A little greenery can enrich the lives of older people, according to the University of Illinois researchers.

"Working with plants promotes physical health, a perception of well-being and an increased capacity to pay attention," said William Sullivan, assistant research professor in the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Sciences.

House plants and gardens allow elderly people to exercise arthritic fingers and joints as well as provide opportunities to be creative and useful. Evidence supports studies indicating reduced blood pressure, less stress and lower instances of depression in older people as a result of cultivating plants.

Plants offer social benefits as well. Older people often grow plants together in their communities which provides a setting for social interaction and companionship.

"Research shows that social ties are established with neighbors through gardens, trees and lawns and those social relationships grow through taking pride in maintaining plants," said Byoung-Suk Kweon, graduate student. "In this way, elderly people feel useful and helpful. They interact with each other and make new friends."

Kweon said creativity and manual performance increase as a result of working with plants.

"It is not the type of plant being cultivated that really matters," she said, "but the physical act of caring for and nurturing the plant that helps the elderly."

Horticultural therapy researchers say people who care for and tend to the needs of plants rediscover a sprig of usefulness and vitality in their own lives. Horticulture therapy has been used in nursing homes, hospitals, jails and other institutions.

Researchers also feel older individuals find a sense of pride in their communities by sharing in gardening and plant maintenance.

Physical disabilities, such as arthritis and fatigue, often ease with the sense of pride and comfort they felt in raising children, and that eases feelings of usefulness and weariness, said Kweon.

Most importantly, working with plants passes the time with friends and eases the feelings of loneliness.

*'No one who came to the rally

Labor legend

82-year-old survivor of Republic Steel rally has made labor her life's work

By RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Managing Editor

Mollie M. West has always fought for what she believed in.

The 82-year-old Evanston woman, who immigrated to America from Poland when she was 12-years-old, will be honored Saturday, for fighting for the rights of others, by the Lake County AFL-CIO Council, headquartered in Libertyville.

West, a long-time labor activist and a survivor of the 1937 "Memorial Day Massacre" at Republic Steel in Chicago, was the first female delegate to the Typographical Union Local 16 convention in 1962 and a delegate to the Chicago Federation of Labor for 30 years.

West has made the labor union her life's work. Today, she spends her days at the Illinois Labor History Society working on documenting and preserving the past.

"Unions play a tremendous role," West said. "We came into being because of the enormous exploitation of the workers and the lack of recognition for the number of hours workers performed. Today, unions are just as important to safeguard workers."

West was just 22-years-old on that fateful Memorial Day in 1937 when she joined with thousands of others for a Memorial Day rally near Republic Steel.

"I was working as a secretary for Harvester located on the west side of Chicago and had helped to organize the first office workers' union," West recalled. "It was decided that we should organize car loads of workers for a rally at Sam's Place, a local bar near the Republic Steel gate, to dramatize the fact that Republic Steel would not sign a union contract."

West says the event was a rally and picnic with many women and children in attendance. It was to be followed by a dance.

During the event, union leaders met with representatives from Republic Steel about a contract which had been approved by the U.S. Steel Workers. Republic Steel, however, was part of the "little steel" companies and did not want their workers to unionize. Leaders suggested the picnic crowd walk the quarter-mile to Republic's gates to rally support for a union contract.

"No one who came to the rally anticipated anything violent would happen," West said. "If we had, certainly there would not have been so many women and children in attendance."

Mollie was in the fifth or sixth row back as the crowd approached the gate.

"As we got closer to the gate, we felt tear gas. We didn't know where it came from," she recalled. "When it happened the crowd panicked and started pushing back. I was blinded by the tear gas and choked by it. I was knocked down and five or six people were on top of me. Then, I heard shots ring out. At first people didn't know what had happened. By the time I was able to get up, it was a battlefield."

Ten people were killed in the shooting and more than 50 were wounded. Many of the wounded were women and children.

"I was just standing there bewildered when I felt a policeman put his pistol in my back. 'Get off the field or I'll put a bullet in your back,' I re-

Succeeding to educate those who are in need

By STEVE PETERSON

Time was, a generation or more in the past, that children with disabilities were treated much differently than they are today.

"Society did not believe that children with educational disabilities could succeed. We have done a 180 degree turn. Students are doing things we never thought they could," John Anderson, superintendent of Special Education District of Lake County, said.

The philosophy of the 37-member school districts which comprise SEDOL at five school buildings and individual classrooms is that SEDOL is the agency to assist the special education students facing the most severe disabilities. It serves some 2,600 students age birth to 21 years with a staff of 800 employees and budget of $32 million.

Anderson is in his seventh year heading SEDOL and special education is very much a part of his career, which began in 1971.

"What are the rewards? Seeing children who might otherwise have been written off become successful, happy and contributing members of society," Anderson said.

The district was formed in 1960. "Before that, it was up to churches to provide services or many times special education children stayed at home," Anderson said.

In 1955 a group of 35 parents, school district administrators and administration met to develop a plan to identify a course of action for the future of the special education group. "Today, we continue our mission that every child deserves an education," Anderson told Gurnee Rotary Club members.

Fair racks up healthy numbers

By LESLIE PIOTROWSKI

Whether the participants were 90 or nine years old, there was something for everyone at the 1998 Health and Fitness Fair held last weekend at the College of Lake County. The event, sponsored by Lakeland Publishers, Inc. and the College of Lake County, drew more than 650 people who engaged in numerous free activities designed to promote better health care and fitness.

"The turnout greatly exceeded our expectations," says Anne Devney, director of health services for the College of Lake County. "We were especially pleased to see entire families and people of all ages and aspects of the community enjoying the activities."

Services that are often expensive or inconvenient were readily available. Senior citizens had their blood pressure checked. Infants and toddlers had their photos and fingerprints taken. People of all ages enjoyed five-minute massages and took advantage of chiropractic screenings to learn if their spinal columns were properly aligned.

"One of the fun and educational events for children was watching their dolls receive mock physical examinations," says Devney. "The point was to help them understand and be less intimidated by checkups."

Twenty-three people participated in a blood drive held in conjunction with LifeSource Blood Services. The drive collected 23 units, enough to help 66 people.

Forty-eight booths represented chiropractors, hospitals and other care facilities throughout the region. They provided visitors with information about all aspects of health care from osteoporosis to cancer prevention to alternative forms of medicine. One of the most popular attractions was the Body Tailors' booth where Jim Flanagan of the Chicago Bears signed autographs.

Drawings for door prizes took place throughout the day. Winners took home Beanie Babies, gym bags full of equipment, gift certificates to restaurants and toy stores, body massages and many other gifts.

"Overall, the fair was quite a success," says Devney. "It helped the college fulfill its mission to serve the community. We are looking forward to hosting next year's event."

Change your clock, change your battery

On Sunday, April 5, it is time to change your clocks forward one hour. Change your clocks when you go to bed the night before.

This is also a great time to check the batteries in your smoke detector. Batteries should be changed every six months and the smoke detector tested every month. When you test your smoke detector you should also practice a fire drill at home. If there are any problems that could develop in your escape plan, it is best to find out about them prior to a fire. Explain to children how they should escape and where their meeting place will be. Make provisions for any handicapped or disabled people who may be in the house.

If you are unsure about what is the best plan for your home, contact your local fire department. Don't forget on April 5, change your clocks and change your smoke detector batteries.

Get it off your chest (847) 223-8073

Lipservice is a phone-in column presented as a feature of Lakeland Newspapers. Lakeland Newspapers makes no claim to the authenticity of the statements. Lakeland Newspapers does not claim the content or the subject matter as fact, but as the personal opinion of the caller. Lakeland Newspapers reserves the right to edit copy or to refrain from printing a message. Call in at 223-8073 and leave your message 24-hours a day. Callers must leave their name, phone number and village name. Names and phone numbers will not be printed; however, callers may be called for verification.

It's NOT childish

I am the one who called in the Lipservice about welfare fraud and about conferring with Mark Beaubien. I had someone in the last Lipservice write something against me, and I feel this person is someone who knows me and the other person. In the first place, I am not a crackpot, and these are not false allegations, they are true. I have proof of this. When I approached Mark Beaubien it was not to go after him personally. I approached him to point out loop holes and situations in the policies of the welfare and IRS that allow people to get away with what they are doing. This is just not a childish act. I am going to make sure this is a issue of the public.

Unincorporated Lake County

Environmental issues

I just read a McHenry County newsletter and I was very impressed with the pro-environmental philosophy that they displayed. This is in sharp contrast to the attitude of the village of Island Lake who displays nothing but hostility towards the environment. From the open space to the animals we are all interconnected and rely on a balance for survival. Island Lake even went to the extent of passing a law that says it is illegal to feed water fowl. They chop down green places and kill or trap wildlife in its' habitat. What kind of people are they, that exhibit such contempt to the natural world.

Island Lake

PAAG

People angry about gangs. How about that for a stand. We keep reading in the paper about the gangs in Round Lake Beach, well I have an idea. Sometimes its hard to know what to do, we have to become the toughest town in Lake County against gangs, whether it makes people a bit mad or not. We have to have the reputation of becoming hardballs. You have to write the village with your realistic ideas. Please put to the attention PAAG. Maybe they will finally get it.

Round Lake Beach

Slow down

I am calling in reference to Main Street in Ingleside. We are unincorporated. When we have to call the police we have to call Lake County. We need a policeman to come sit out here in the mornings. For the past two weeks cars come barreling down the road at 50-60 m.p.h. when the speed limit is only 25-30. Eight years ago, two kids were killed this way, and it is going to happen again. Something should be done about it. There are too many children getting on the bus even with their parents standing out there with them. These cars have no right to be driving down this road like this. Please help us.

Ingleside

Outrageous

I would like to comment on a article in the paper about a women who was arrested in Round Lake Beach for spanking her child because he wouldn't do his homework. This is the most obscene thing I have ever heard and we wonder why kids are shooting kids. We complain about people dying and we can't even correct our children. What is this world coming too?

More about seatbelts

I am calling to praise the person who put the story about seatbelts in Lipservice. I couldn't agree more. I try to get my kids to wear seat belts and they complain, but as soon as they get on that school bus, twice a day, they don't have to. The bus driver just tells them to sit down. It's still not safe not to wear seatbelts on A bus is twice as big as our cars at home. Something should be done about it. Now that I am calling this in and someone did before, maybe the bus companies will start to listen.

Stop the guns!

There was another tragedy that has to deal with guns. You idiots with your ideas about having guns and teaching your children how to shoot them and how to deal with everything, you just asking for trouble. Another tragedy is just waiting to happen because of people like you.

Selfish town

I think the Big Hollow and Grant Schools should be annexed from Volo. Let them educate their own new village children. I wonder how much they would require for impact then. I bet it would be more then $900. Shame on you Village of Volo. I would think twice before supporting such a selfish town with my business.

Destroyed wetlands

Lake Villa and Lindenhurst tax payers, did you vote for the library referendum last year? You may be interested in learning what they plan on putting in front of the newly remodeled library overlooking the wetlands. A stripmall and car dealer and a eight building, three story complex. So when you are enjoying the new magazine room at the library try not to be distracted by the parked or moving cars, the large building, the numerous garbage containers and all the other lovely things that you would find behind a strip mall or building complex. Would you have voted for the multi-million dollar referendum if you knew the wetlands were going to be distorted? And aren't our schools crowded enough? They are having us believe the the percentage of children in these two to three building complexes is zero.

Just look

I am replying to "bring back the Smurfs" in the March 27 issue. They are still on. And another good one is Blues Clues. You just have to take time to look.

Library or tomb

I stopped in a Lake County Public library today, and believe me that place is like a tomb. I think it is about time the staff there stop being such soreheads and face the reality of defeat like grown up adults.

Concerned

This is about "Flashdance" and I am very concerned about this bar that allows women to go topless. I would love to find out the name of that bar so I can discuss that policy with the manager.

Thank you

I would like to thank all the guys of the Greater Round Lake paramedics. You did a great job saving my mom. You got her to the hospital just in time. I hope you do a great job for everybody.

Round Lake

Boycott

I am calling in response to the article about the Village of Volo and the reduction of the impact fees. I would like to request and ask that all residents that currently have homes in the tax district of Big Hollow and Grant Township Highschool, to actively boycott all services and stores that reside in the Volo district. If we do that, they will begin to feel the impact and then maybe they will apply pressure to the mayor to back off of this deal which is a no win situation for the residents of this area.

That was dumb

I want to thank the caller of "Flashdance" who told about the girl who flashed at the Round Lake Bar. The caller said she wants to clean up Round Lake, but all she had done is attract more people to Round Lake, that you don't want to have.

Gurnee

Devoted

I would like to thank all the people who belong to the parish of church I attend. For the past 28 years I have devoted my time and constant care to the church. I would especially like to thank those who voted me "Woman of the Year" in 1995. I would like to continue what I have already done voluntary, for it was my daily routine. Thank you everyone, from Scotty.

More consideration

I want to comment on the Volo Village Board with regards to the school tax situation. I wonder how they would like it, it all the people in Big Hollow and Grant Township residents boycotted their merchants. I personally go regularly to several of the businesses. Maybe the city fathers should have a bit more consideration.

It's a shame

What's wrong with these young people? They use money for drinks, alcohol, drugs, but where is the money when they have to pay for their bills and utilities? Or food and shoes for their children? They spend it all in the bars, playing pool, darts and on the women. When are they going to grow up and realize they have responsibilities to their families first?

AT A GLANCE

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Village wins Governors awards

Mundelein—Village residents have done it again, helping the village win two more Governors Hometown Awards to add to its growing collection.

This June, the village will accept awards for Project CAPE, a three-time winner since its formation in 1994, and the Mundelein Senior Citizens Police Academy, created last fall.

Police Chief Raymond J. Rose coordinates both programs, and said he was once again excited for the community as a whole. "We as a community are continuing to move forward," Rose said. "We are setting the pace and this whole process becomes a validation for our whole community."

Mundelein has won for Governors Hometown Awards since 1994.

Trustee, Rte. 53 foe Bitta dies

Hawthorn Woods—Village Trustee Andrew S. Bitta, 68, died March 28, at his home in Hawthorn Woods, after a fight against cancer. He had recently not been feeling too well, and had been hospitalized for the past several weeks before his death.

"It is a tremendous loss for our village and the residents of this community," said John M. Kalmar, village administrator. "He indeed was deeply committed to saving this community, and impartially protecting the environment of this community," Kalmar said.

Bitta had served as a village trustee for eight years, and was chairman of the board's environment committee. He spent 26 years as a dean of students Maine Township High School District 207. He was known as a lifelong environmentalist who fought vigorously to stop the Route 53 extension, took children from nearby Fremont School in Mundelein on nature walks, and served as executive director of the Des Plaines River Student Alliance, a group representing 19 high schools.

Former chief sues village

Wauconda—Former Wauconda Police Chief Andrew W. Mayer is suing the village and James Eschenbach, as mayor and as an individual, for $845,000 and his former job. In the complaint filed in federal court in Chicago March 6, Mayer is seeking lost wages and fringe benefits of $45,000, damages for pain, suffering, distress and loss of reputation of $300,000, punitive damages of $500,000, any other costs and expenses of the plaintiff, and his former job.

Mayer was police chief from 1990 to Sept. 4, 1996, when he was fired for drunken driving arrest in Richmond without having a hearing, as is required in two village handbooks.

"He (Eschenbach) did not allow me to have due process," Mayer said. "I think what was done was wrong." Mayer denied the charges at that time, and was vindicated when he was found not guilty on Nov. 13, 1997 by a McHenry County judge.

Electors to decide on building

Gurnee—Warren Township electors will be able to have their say in construction of a multiple-use facility at Warren Township Center.

Supervisor Sue Simpson is proposing a five-year, approximately 4.75 percent interest rate loan to finance the 31,000 square foot structure.

"It will be a large multi-use facility. The seniors will be able to use it during the day, adults at night and the supervisor's office will also be there," said Simpson. "It is for the entire community."

The annual town meeting is 7 p.m. April 14 at Warren Twp. Center, 17801 W. Washington St. It will feature election of a moderator and department reports. The highway, youth and family services, parks, assessor, senior services and Warren Special Recreation are expected to give annual reports.

Estimated cost of the new building is $1.8 million.

Trustees approved having the matter added to the town meeting agenda at a special meeting.

Annexation sewer mystery solved

Round Lake—As the mystery that surrounds the surprise Village of Volo annexation of Miller Farms continues, more things come to light.

One of the biggest mysteries to be solved in the annexation process is that Brunell Russell has been in contact with Lakes Region Sanitary Sewer system of Lake County to discuss the possibility of a sewer running from Volo and hooking into a current Lakes Region Sanitary Sewer line.

Bustling for Beanie Babies

Traffic was heavy at the Lakeland Publishers, Inc. booth at the Health and Fitness Fair held at the College of Lake County last weekend. Lakeland's booth featured a Beanie Baby give away that sparked the interest of more than a few fair-goers.—Photo by Lynn Gunnarson Dahlstrom

The expense would range in the neighborhood of $2,500,000 for the hook up. The big question is who will pick up the price tag for the sewers.

According to Mayor Brunell Russell of Volo, sales tax will pay for the sewer lines that are going into the region.

"The sewers will be paid for by sales tax," Russell stated in a phone interview. "We will issue some sort of revenue bonds that will be paid back from sales tax."

That would mean that the bonds would have to be special interest bonds, designed to be paid back through sales tax from the area.

Antioch High state stars shine

Antioch—Students who have achieved Illinois state recognition for athletic performance were honored on March 26 during early morning ceremonies at Antioch Community High School.

Individuals received a medal from the school for achievement as bowler, wrestler, dance team member, and cheerleader.

Athletic Department Director Jim Kafer said that four years ago the school started a program to honor athletes who qualify for state competition. He said that it is a great source of pride for the Antioch community, school, and coaches to recognize these performers.

"We certainly applaud their achievement," Kafer said.

Bowling Coach Steve Haenchen presented Amber Swiderek with her medal for becoming a state qualifier in bowling.

Wrestling Coach Joe Brandimore announced medals for state wrestlers Nate Carden, Jeff Ultes, and Ryan Hliniak.

Cheerleader Coach Bill Goetzelman presented a squad that he considered exceptional. "This is probably the best group we've ever had," he said prior to presenting their awards. "It is a truly remarkable group."

Coach Joy Edge presented medals to the Dance Team members. "They were never afraid to challenge themselves," she said. "They always went for the challenge."

"They worked tremendously hard," she said of the 20 team members.

Officers attacked after dispute

Round Lake Beach—According to police reports, five men were arrested after attacking two police officers after police broke up a neighborhood dispute in Round Lake Beach this past week.

According to reports, the five men who were arrested were William Reyes, 23, and Jose Reyes of 933 S. Lake Street in Mundelein, Eric Reyes, 19, Manuel Reyes, 25, and Epifano Reyes, 54, of 930 Clarendon Street in Round Lake Beach.

The scuffle happened when police chased two of the men into a home after the officers stopped them for questioning. The two men refused to cooperate and ran into the home, followed closely by police.

After entering the house, the men resisted arrested, shoving the officers around. After handcuffing one, the officers were attacked by two other men involved in the incident, while 6-8 other people entered the home to join in the fray.

Police used pepper spray to keep the offenders at arms length before other officers from the Round Lake Police Department and Round Lake Beach Police Department could arrive and assist.

Author to discuss personal growth

Lake Villa—Author Jean Deeds will discuss lessons she learned on 2,155 miles of the mountainous Appalachian Trail on Thursday, April 16 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Lake Villa District Library.

The library's book discussion group will meet Saturday, April 11, at 10 a.m., before Deeds' visit, to discuss the book she wrote about her adventures, "There are Mountains to Climb."

Deeds will use slides and discussion to communicate to the audience on April 16 the physical and spiritual journey she took in 1994.

"Hiking the Appalachian Trail was the hardest thing I've ever done," Deeds has said of her experience.

At age 51, mother of two grown sons, with no hiking or camping experience, Deeds hiked the Appalachian Trail with a 40-pound backpack.

Deeds is now a motivational speaker, but continues to work with women. "Stretching my limits and taking on physical challenge has become an important part of my life."

Women's Club Bake Sale in Gurnee

Lindenhurst—The Lindenhurst Women's Club will host a bake sale Saturday, April 4 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Village of Gurnee Wal-Mart. The club will offer baked goods such as cookies, brownies, cakes, and cupcakes for sale.

The club raises money throughout the year for donations to community organizations and events. They also take time to enjoy group social activities.

"We're trying to raise more in order to make more donations," said Yvette Ezell, President of the Lindenhurst Women's Club.

The Wal-Mart bake sale is a new event for the club.

The Women's Club is more than people who raise money, according to Ezell. They do many activities together. They have outings for Mother's Day. At the end of May they will be at the Marriott Lincolnshire to see a play. They have Scotch-doubles bowling.

"We are trying to bring more people in," she said.

The club is a women's auxiliary of the Lindenhurst Men's Club. "Our next meeting is on April 9 at 7 p.m. at the Thor Neumann Civic Center," said Ezell.

Grayslake officer honored at funeral

Grayslake—Flags flew at half mast, the police department entrance way was draped in black bunting and the bagpipes played, March 30, as Grayslake Police Sergeant Tom Woodruff was laid to rest.

Woodruff, 46, passed away March 25 after suffering a heart attack.

Representatives of nearly 50 police departments attended funeral services for Woodruff.

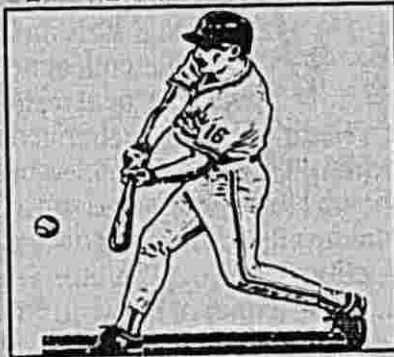

Woodruff was a veteran of the U.S. Army and served as a military police officer from 1970-'73. He became a member of the Grayslake Police Department in 1983 and was promoted to sergeant in September 1994.

No winners

Libertyville Assistant Fire Chief Ken Norton was found guilty of reckless homicide in Lake County's most watched trial of the year last week. But no one celebrated. It was a hollow victory for prosecutors and for the family of Mark Capistrant, the 43-year-old Grayslake father of three who died after being struck by Norton. Capistrant was bicycling down Rte. 120, July 30, 1997 when he was hit from behind by Norton's pick-up. Norton was also found guilty of two misdemeanor charges of failure to stop and failure to render aid after an accident involving injury or death.

Norton went home while Capistrant lie on the pavement dying. The assistant fire chief wept as he left the courtroom last week. As an assistant fire chief, Norton knew better than most drivers the value of human life. He has been willing to put his life on the line to save others as a firefighter for more than 20 years.

The Capistrant and the Norton families ended life as they knew it July 30th.

Neither family will ever be the same.

For the Capistrants, Norton's conviction may end one chapter in the tragedy but it doesn't heal the wounds or bring back the husband and father they knew and loved.

For the Nortons, sentencing May 5th brings one more painful chapter in the lesson of a tragedy which saw Norton's wife, Jane, testify for the prosecution that she believed he was driving impaired.

But, there are more losers in this unnecessary tragedy than just the two families.

There is the Village of Libertyville, who may lose a valuable 20-year employee July 30.

And, there is the Village of Grayslake, whose reputation and handling of the evidence that night came under great scrutiny during the three-day trial. Their failure to order a bodily fluid test prevented the prosecution from formally charging Norton with driving while intoxicated.

Grayslake's short staffing that Sunday forced quick decisions by part-time employees such as traffic investigator Roger Barrette, who failed to check the tape-recording of an eye-witness to the accident. The on-scene interview had not recorded and the eye-witness was not asked for a second interview until a week later. Valuable time lost. Barrette also failed to impound the truck that evening and allowed Jane Norton to drive it home. It was seized by a search warrant a few days later. Valuable evidence not secured.

"The sloppiness of this investigation makes this look like Grayslake R.F.D.," said Thomas Briscoe, Norton's attorney during his closing arguments for the case. Frustrated that the holes in the investigation didn't allow him to prove his client was not intoxicated.

The many professionals involved in this case will undoubtedly approach future tragedies differently. It may be in that lesson we find a winner.

Media not the fall guy

The ambush and shooting of four children and a teacher in a Jonesboro, Ark., middle school last week has brought the usual round of finger pointing at every one from the National Rifle Association to Hollywood producers to popular culture to the media in assessing blame for the tragedy.

As the grandfather of 11-year-old Andrew Golden and the parents of 13-year-old Mitchell Johnson willingly agree to be interviewed by every television news magazine in production to gain their 15-minutes of fame, a different picture is beginning to emerge from the small southern town.

The fault is not with the students being taught to shoot guns. Children across America have been taught to use guns by their parents for generations, but very few have ever taken a gun to school much less raised it in violence.

The fault is not with the media. The media has reported heinous crimes for the public to read about since paper was invented.

The fault is not with the Hollywood. Movie makers have been glamorizing the life of crime since they started recording.

The fault is not exposure to violence. How many victims of the Nazi Holocaust went on killing sprees when the war was over? Certainly, their exposure to violence was far more personal than that of these two youngsters.

Maybe the answers to who's at fault can be found in the way their parents have willingly responded to media interviews denying problems with their children all the while knowing that there were some.

It was revealed this week, 13-year-old Johnson was charged with sexual molestation of a two-year-old last summer and has been under psychiatric care. Certainly a warning sign.

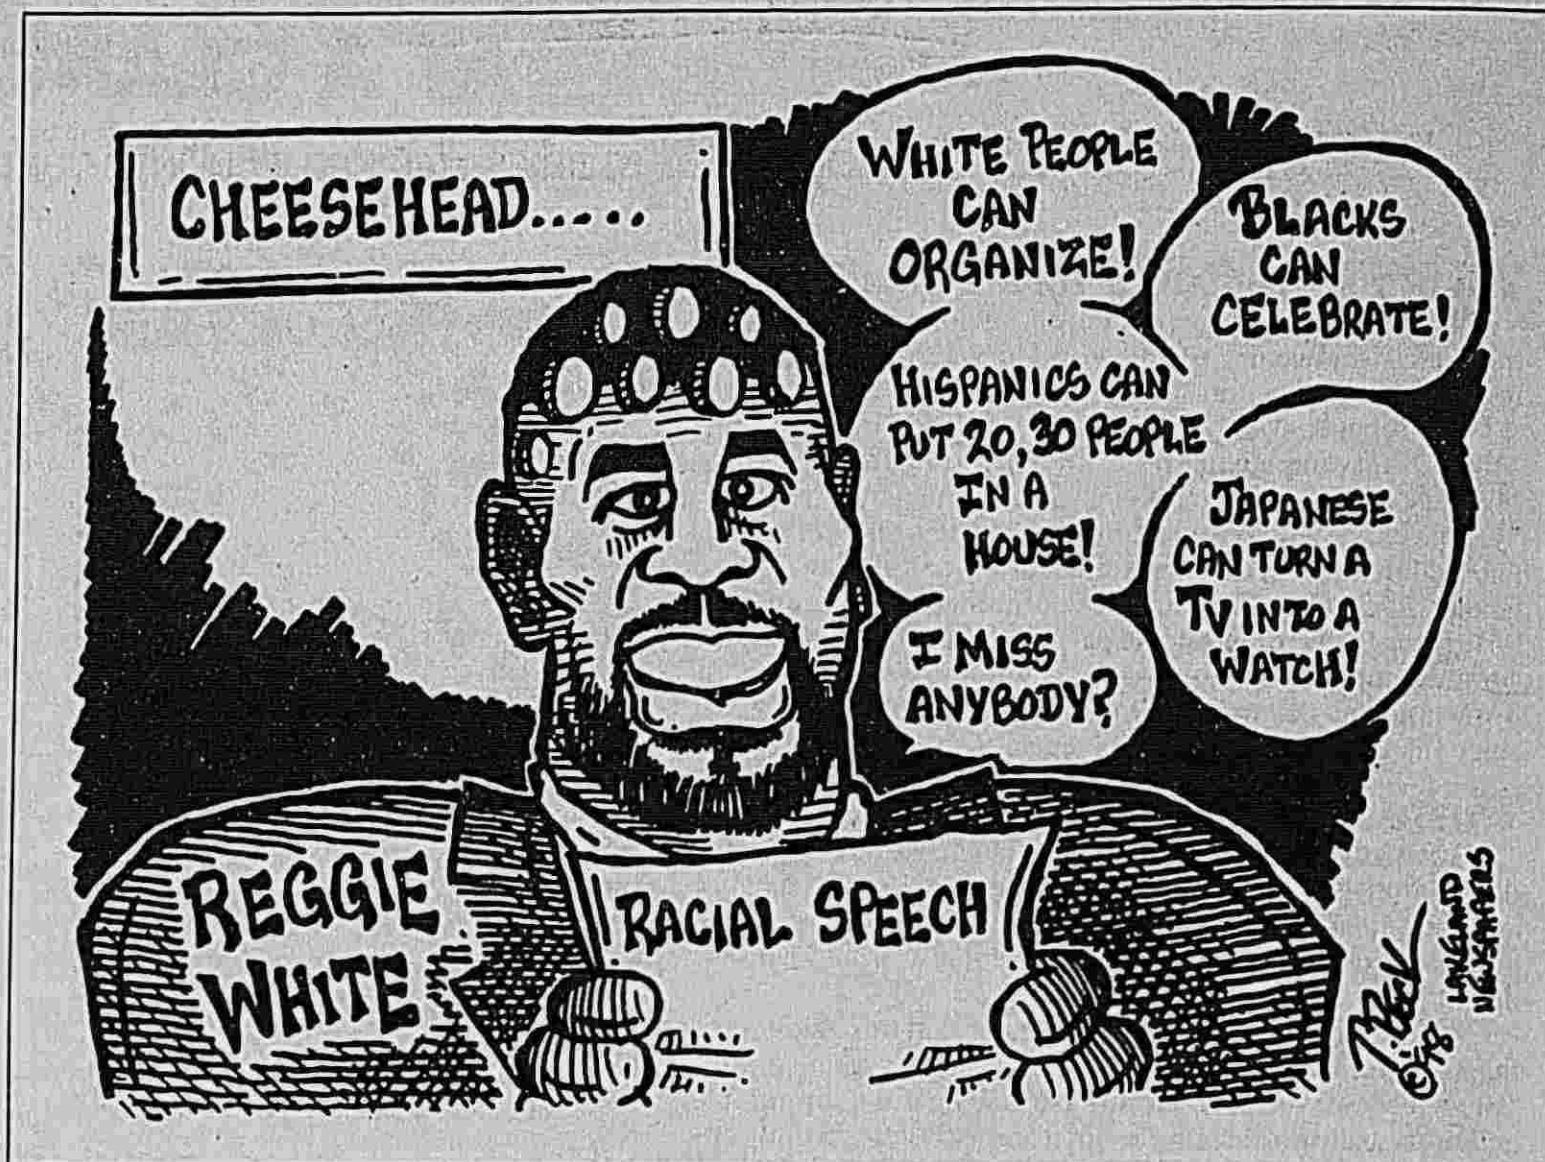

Both young men are said to have told fellow students they were going to kill.

Placing all of the blame on the parents may be too harsh, mental illness can not necessarily be prevented.

But, behavior is learned in the home from infancy.

If the media and the movies are somehow to blame, then the parents who allowed these two boys to be exposed to these elements surely must share in the blame.

Good parenting can't stop children from going bad but it puts one enormous boulder in the path.

VIEWPOINT

Must schools be sacrificed?

The impending annexation by the Village of Volo of a housing development dubbed Miller Farms, once again illustrates just how taxpayers lose when villages, in an effort to increase rooftops to draw commercial businesses, neglect the needs of local schools.

It also illustrates how developers seemingly play municipalities off each other in an effort to "get the best deal."

Both Volo and Fox Lake have had the parcel under consideration.

The Village of Volo has decided Grant High School and the Big Hollow Elementary District will split $900 in impact fees per unit from the development which is proposing 250 duplexes and 160 single family residents.

The School Impact Fee Committee, which is comprised of Lake County Board Member Bonnie Thomson Carter (Dist. 5- Ingleside), Grant High School Board of Education President Paul Jakstas and Big Hollow Superintendent Ron Pazanin, has recommended a $2,700 per unit impact fee for developers. This figure is based on the projected cost of educating the students before tax dollars begin flowing in to school coffers. The difference between Volo's required school impact fees and the committee's suggestion for the 410 units? $738,000. No small change. It will be made up from existing homeowners.

The Village of Fox Lake had told Four Oaks Development it would be seeking $2,700 per unit in school impact fees. Four Oaks seems to have chosen Volo.

The shame in this proposed development is that Volo, in a rush to attract commercial development critical to offsetting property taxes in a growing village, has placed no faith in the work of the local impact fee committee, which includes leaders from the two districts which will be impacted by the development.

Volo Mayor Burnell Russell said, "We told the schools exactly what they are getting. We have no plans to sit down with them in the future to discuss impact fees."

The shame in this statement is that Russell had been active on the Wauconda Community School Board for many, many years. He should understand the cost of educating students. He has also been a lifetime farmer in Volo. He knows better than anyone in Volo how rapidly times and land use area changing. He is living it first-hand.

Does Russell really believe revenue generated by commercial development, planned for a site adjacent to the Miller Farms, will pay the students way? Perhaps, he should visit vacant commercial sites in other villages.

Russell appears to be confident sales taxes from existing businesses and future ones will offset the cost of education plus the $2.5 million cost of running sewers to the property.

It is a scenario which has played out in villages across the county in the last decade.

Volo leaders have fallen prey to lack of legislation which does not provide adequate guidelines for impact fees. Volo leaders, like many villages before them, have made a decision that seems rushed and inconsiderate to area taxpayers, but seems like the only choice to a municipality that doesn't want to be gobbled up by their next-door-neighbors. Russell is not to blame. He and his administration, like countless ones before them, faced a tough decision and have decided to grow. The fall-out of the decision or the long-term effect of staying a sleepy village can be argued pro and con.

The Naperville Formula, long-established in court, does help to protect villages in negotiating impact fees for growth. It establishes guidance and is a starting point. State legislators need to step up and legislate fair compensation to reinforce the Formula. Stronger legislation will ease growth's impact on all residents.

As has happened to countless villages in the collar counties, Volo and Fox Lake have both been courted to annex this development. Volo beat Fox Lake to the punch, perhaps by offering lower impact fees.

Sadly, many villages have thought growth would pay for itself.

In many ways it has, new residents, buying new homes have received much more than they bargained for — in overcrowded schools and their tax bills.

Keeping your word

Waukegan Attorney Ronald E. Griesheimer, a former colleague, was in a local restaurant recently and we exchanged friendly greetings. When I left office, Ron was kind enough to write a letter to the editor. We often disagreed on political ideology, but Ron wrote that I was "a man of his word." That meant a lot to me.

It reminded me of another legislator who came to Springfield and wanted to "crash on" in an aggressive way. During his first term, he had a bill coming up and came to my desk for support. I told him that if the bill did what he just explained to me, he had my backing.

SEEING IT THROUGH

Then the legislator went back to his seat and his bill was soon called. In the meantime, I went over his bill, only to find that the bill was different from what he explained. After his short introduction of it on the floor, I raised my hand for recognition.

My first words were that the most important thing that legislators can give is their word. I then said, "Rep. (Gerald) Weller, this bill isn't what you represented it to be in our conversation when you came to

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Schulien, Link keep chairmanship

Despite billing that this year's Republican and Democratic County Conventions would offer more than one choice for party chairman, the meetings were relatively dull.

Both Republican John "Doc" Schulien and Democrat Terry Link were re-elected party chairman. There were no other names nominated at either convention.

The GOP honored their grand dame, state Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis on the occasion of her 80th birthday. Geo-Karis was not opposed in the Republican primary March 17 and appears to be easily headed for another term in the state senate.

Other Republicans gaining recognition at the event included: Eugene Montgomery, who was awarded the Robert J. Milton Award for top voter turnout in his Libertyville precinct. Other precinct committeemen noted for voter turnout were: George Bell, Jr., of Libertyville; Jim Dash of Libertyville; Willard Helander of Libertyville and Lyla Hammond of West Deerfield.

Elected as delegate for the 8th congressional district was Bob Neal. State Senator Bill Peterson will be the delegate for the 10th congressional district.

The Republicans gathered at Midlane in Wadsworth. The Democrats met at the Waukegan Ramada Inn.

State statute dictates the convention to be held the second Monday after a primary election.

No State Education department

Gov. Jim Edgar won't leave an Illinois Department of Education as part of his legacy. He announced late last week that after further discussions with educational leaders around the state, he was convinced of a lack of consensus for the department.

Schulien: 'Re-elected county GOP chair

Link: 'Retains Dem top county seat

Geo-Karis: 'Celebrates 80th, meets Miss America

Edgar plans to continue working for a constitutional amendment to expand the Courts Commission to include public membership.

Meeting Miss America

State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis continues to be on the move. Last week she presented Miss America Kate Shindle of Evanston with a proclamation recognizing her many accomplishments including her speaking tour stressing the need for HIV prevention.

The Can-Do Candidate

Democratic candidate for Lake County Treasurer Lynda C. Paul has announced her campaign slogan: "The Can-Do Candidate." Paul will be emphasizing her experience in the business world and her formal education, including a MBA from Keller Graduate School in the campaign.

"This office receives $3 billion in property tax dollars and other revenue each year and the taxpayers of Lake County deserve to have a trained professional who 'Can Do' the correct financial planning and monitoring of funds to run the office effectively," Paul said.

She is facing Republican Robert Skidmore in the general election.

Crane honored by Chamber

The United States Chamber of Commerce awarded Congressman Phil Crane (R-8th Dist) with its "Spirit of Enterprise" Award for supporting policies crucial to American business.

Crane received the award for voting in favor of the chamber positions at least 70 percent of the time.

Some of these votes included the 1998 Balanced-Budget Act and the Tax-Payer Relief Act.

Jury duty proves a patriotic plus

When I mentioned I spent last week on jury duty, friends groaned and shook their heads in sympathy and empathy.

Jury duty, like voting, is one of our precious freedoms, yet most of us hope to avoid being summoned. We have busy lives, families to tend, jobs in which we consider ourselves indispensable, television to watch and recreation to pursue.

The old newspaper curmudgeon H.L. Mencken defined a jury as "a group of 12 people who, having lied to the judge about their hearing, health and business engagements, have failed to fool him."

And, as we demonstrated in the March 17 election, we're also becoming artful at dodging the voting booth. That, of course, is scary, and the subject of another discussion.

When we answer the jury summons and report to the Court-house, we learn that the judges place great value on the system. England is the model of our laws and our forefathers took from the Magna Carta the guarantee to trial by an impartial jury of our peers.

One of my reference books quotes a judge named George H. Boldt as saying, "Jury service, honorably performed, is as important in defense of our country, its Constitution and laws, and the ideals and standards for which they stand, as the service rendered by the soldier on the field of battle."

But considerably less dangerous. A Lake County judge who has had more than 500 juries told us, "I've found that the wisdom and common sense of juries has been very good."

Famous lawyer Clarence Darrow said, "I never saw a jury of 12 people, if given all the facts, that didn't do what was fair and right."

Forget, if you can, the O.J. Simpson trial.

THE PFARR CORNER

Jerry Pfarr

Our welcoming judge said that although we probably wished we were elsewhere, we might emerge from jury duty with a good feeling about how our system of justice works. He was right.

One of the busiest persons in the courtroom is the court reporter, who records and transcribes a verbatim report of all proceedings. I told one of them I thought she had a really tough job. "It is stressful," she said, "but it's a terrific job for the amount of schooling required."

Constantly typing at top speed to record every word, when does she transcribe the mountain of shorthand she must take?

"I was up until 2 in the morning the last few days," she said.

And then we have the much-maligned objects of all those lawyer jokes.

"What's four lawyers drowned in Lake Michigan? A start."

"The definition of a crying shame: A busload of lawyers going over the cliff with an empty seat."

How nasty; a nice person would not have repeated them.

But the five lawyers I saw in action were intelligent, articulate and obviously working diligently on behalf of their clients — just as gracious and courteous as our everyday out-of-court lawyer acquaintances.

One friend, Chris, who also has spent a week or two in the sometimes tedious but certainly enlightening jury box, said, "Everyone should experience it at least once."

For sure.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

How to tell if you are a Liberal (an incomplete check list)

You think sexual harassment is rampant, date rape pervasive, domestic violence common and Paula Jones is lying. You pale at the execution of child killers, but defend the killing of unborn children as an expression of choice. You think trees have feelings, animals can conceptualize and the fetus is a blob of protoplasm.

You are convinced that Frank Capra films and Norman Rockwell paintings are lies and distortions but "Platoon," "Dances With Wolves" and "Thelma and Louise" are realistic. You thought Walt Disney was saccharine sweet and cutesy-pie until they made "Pocahontas." You think a moment of silent prayer at the beginning of the school day constitutes governmental indoctrination and intrusion on parental authority, while sex education, condom distribution and multiculturalism are values-neutral.

You agonize over the threats to the natural environment (acid rain, toxic waste) but are oblivious to threats to the social environment (pornography, promiscuity and family dissolution). You want to legalize cocaine and outlaw handguns. You think cops are pigs and criminals are products of their environment. You believe the National Rifle Assn. helps criminals while the American Civil Liberties Union protects the innocent.

You think Rush Limbaugh is responsible for the Oklahoma City bombing, but are outraged by suggestions that the writings of the Unabomber and Al Gore have anything in common. You believe corporate profits are obscene, but government spending is too low and the American people are undertaxed. You think deficits are caused by loopholes.

You think marriage is obsolete except for homosexuals. You believe homosexuality is genetically determined, but fascism and spouse abuse aren't. You think AIDS is spread by insufficient government funding. You consider the Catholic bishops noble and idealistic when they oppose capital punishment and welfare cuts but dangerous fanatics trying to legislate their theology when they oppose abortion.

You are convinced that the proponents of welfare reform hate the poor and opponents of affirmative action hate minorities, but AIDS activists who bash the Pope and People for The American Way types who attack Protestant "fundamentalists" are guardians of democracy. You attribute every minority problem to entrenched, institutional racism and the legacies of slavery and segregation. You think the black middle class is a myth created by Newt Gingrich. You don't understand all the whining about affirmative action and are more than willing to sacrifice someone else's employment or education opportunity to assuage your guilt.

You marched against America's involvement in Viet Nam, thought the Gulf War was unnecessary but believe 25,000 U.S. troops in Bosnia are vital to our national interest. You see no correlation between welfare and the rise of illegitimacy, judicial leniency and surging crime or addiction and the entertainment industry's glorification of drugs. You think those child-abusing, religious fanatics at Waco had it coming, but the illegal immigrants roughed up by California deputies after a high speed chase are martyrs.

my desk, and I can't support it in its present form." He knew "he got caught" and asked the Speaker to "take the bill out of the record," a procedure to postpone the matter.

Rep. Weller is a congressman now, so I guess that he's done some things right. But, I did notice that earlier this year he sought the support of his Republican colleagues when he ran for a caucus leadership position, and he lost handily. Naturally, I wondered if he had broken his word with them, too.

Which brings me to the point. There was a time when a public official's word meant something. It was kept. I would often caution newly-elected legislators not to be loose with their words of support. Lawmakers roam up and down the aisles with roll call sheets asking early commitment of votes to their bills. Sometimes, they don't even tell you what's in their bill, just the bill number. Yet, I don't know how many times I heard legislators respond, "yes, I'm with you." When they later found out what was really in the bill, they had to "eat their words of support."

No, someone's word, or the handshake, aren't as "good as gold" any more. Even if it's in writing, there's no guarantee.

Reneging on promises isn't limited to small-time one-on-one deals. Corporations aren't living up to their agreements either. They take advantage of unsuspecting hard-working employees.

Lately, you've read that many Sears retirees have charged that Sears has reduced their life insurance benefits from as much as $100,000 to no more than $5,000. Sears says that it can no longer afford the higher benefits. The retirees say that "a promise is a promise." It's sad that they learned the hard way that "they weren't in good hands" with Sears. Well, that one will be decided in the courts in a class action lawsuit. Based on the handshake principle, I hope the retirees win it.

People complain that we have become a litigious society. Our courts are jammed. It's no wonder. People just don't keep their word like they used to.

CORRECTION

In the March 27 Viewpoint it should be clarified that the decision to implement a Tax Increment Finance (TIF) District in Round Lake Park was made by the previous administration in a vote cast in December 1995. Other villages in Lake County have aggressively pursued TIF districts as well.

CLC Board awards construction contract

The College of Lake County board of trustees last night awarded a $2.5 million contract to Boller Construction Co., Inc. of Waukegan for the construction of an employment and training center on the Grayslake Campus.

The center will provide approximately 24,000 square feet of space to house a variety of employment assistance and job training resources offered by the Illinois Department of Employment Security (IDES), the Private Industry Council, the County of Lake and CLC. Construction is scheduled to be completed by Jan. 1, 1999.

To fund the construction, the board last night also approved the sale of $2.3 million in bonds. The bonds will be financed from lease payments the college will receive from IDES. In a related matter, the board approved the sale of a $3.5 million in limited tax bonds to cover the college's costs for early retirement incentives and technology improvements. The board adopted resolutions of intent to issue both bonds at its January meeting and held a public hearing on the proposals at the February meeting.

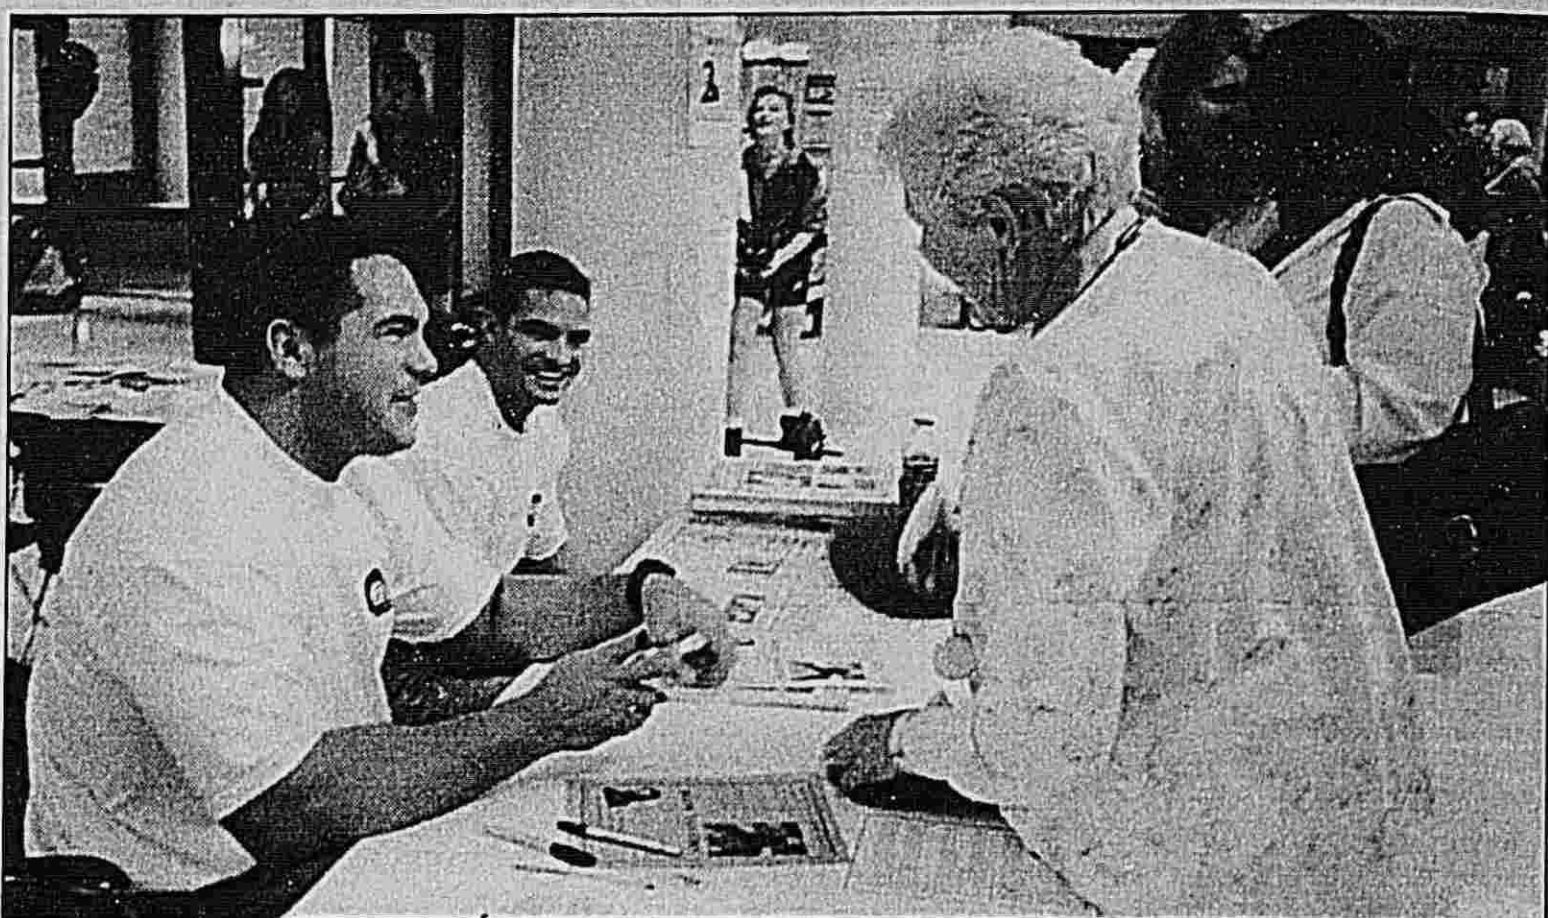

In a separate action, the board approved the submission of three college construction projects to the Illinois Community College Board for improvements to the Grayslake Campus and property recently purchased by the college in Vernon Hills. On the Grayslake Campus, the college proposes to construct a facilities warehouse and an addition to the greenhouse used in the horticulture program. On the Vernon Hills site, located at 1120 S. Milwaukee Ave., the college proposes to renovate a building on the property to provide classrooms and offices for the Southlake Educational Center. The total cost for all three projects is estimated at $1.6 million, which will be financed through the college's building and maintenance fund.

In other news, the trustees congratulated Board Chair Patricia Jones (Waukegan) who was named the Most Influential African-American in Lake County by the People's Resource Council, an organization that recognizes leaders in the African-American community. Trustee Richard Anderson (Grayslake) was also congratulated on his selection as a winner of Northeastern Illinois University's 1998 distinguished alumni award.

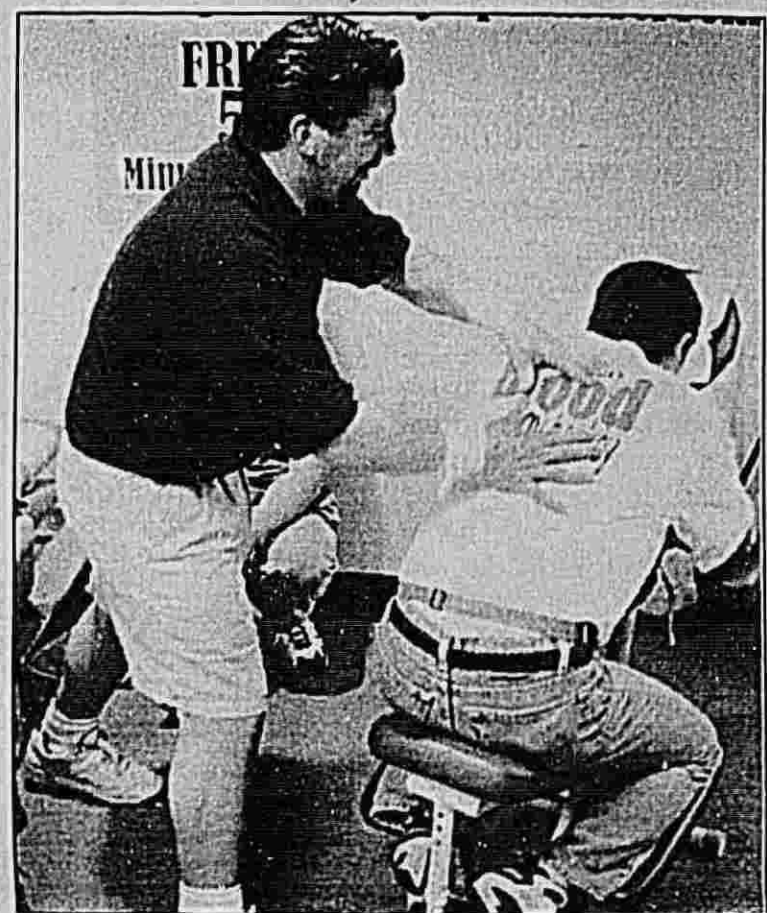

The board also recognized two faculty award recipients. English instructor Mary Winter (Arlington Heights) was selected by students as the 1998 CLC Outstanding Faculty Member, and the late George Nelson, a political science instructor, was selected as the recipient of the new part-time faculty member award established by the student senate. The board also honored student trustee Jason Johnson as CLC's nominee for the 1998 Gigi Campbell Student Trustee Excellence Award, and student Vanessa Quatraro-Freeman (Vernon Hills), CLC's nominee for an essay contest sponsored by the Illinois Community College Trustees Assn.

In other news, Board Chair Patricia Jones announced the selection of Paul Simon, retired U.S. Senator from Illinois, as the speaker at this year's commencement on May 16.

EDUCATE: Help for impaired

SEDOL-owned facilities include: Laremont School in Gages Lake: moderate to profound multiple disabilities;

Gages Lake School: severe behavior disorder;

Sally Potter School in Mundelein: health impaired;

Central High School: for grades nine through 12 at 154 School St. in Libertyville;

John Powers Center: for deaf, hard of hearing and communication disorders in Vernon Hills.

The district's administrative office is located in Gages Lake after having moved from Gurnee a few years ago.

Specialties SEDOL offers today include: early intervention, audiology, nursing, occupational therapy, orientation-mobility, physical therapy, prevocational, psychology, social work, speech and language and instructional programs.

"The ultimate goal is to return students with skills to become successful students," according to a SEDOL video.

Anderson said the major trend is having schools bring back students who are in need of moderate services.

He mentioned the district follows students with long range studies. After age 21 is a gap.

Many companies, from fast food chains to Wal-Mart employ former SEDOL students.

"Many employers see them as good workers. The students are glad to be there, to have something to contribute to," Anderson said.

SEDOL is financed not by taxes, but tuition charged to member districts, 52 percent of revenues and state and federal grants and contractual fees.

Its mission: "Thirty-seven school districts united to helping children providing advocacy, leadership and resources and services."

Among goals for the coming five years:

- By Aug. 1, 2000, SEDOL students, staff and administration will be using state of the art technology to meet educational needs and to improve organizational efficiency;

- By Aug. 1, 2000 SEDOL will have implemented a staff development program that results in all staff being trained to provide effective educational services to the population they serve.

- Appropriate housing will be available for all SEDOL students.

- By Aug. 1, 2000 SEDOL's focus will be to shift to provision of students with severe disabilities, expansion of services for more effective interventions for this population, transition of programs for students with mild and moderate disabilities to the districts, and provisions of technical assistance, prevention services, prevocational services, inclusion services and staff development to the district.

Anderson explained such cooperatives as SEDOL number about 90 in Illinois. Several in southern Illinois serve many counties.

"When I was at Dubuque, Iowa, we served 4,000 square miles," he said.

A psychologist in Belvidere, Ill., in 1971, he always aspired to be in administration.

"You can have influence on change," said Anderson, a resident of Wildwood.

LABOR: Massacre survivor to be honored

member him saying, "West said."

She remembers there were several doctors in the group who had come out to the rally and they set up Sam's Place like a field hospital.

Later that evening, the dance planned for the roof garden of the Jewish People's Institute was transformed into the first protest dance of the massacre.

The events of the day propelled West to stay involved in the labor movement.

In 1959, she went to work as a printer/proofreader at the Daily Racing Form and was a leader of Typographical Union Local 16. She became the first delegate to the union's 1962 convention.

"It was in San Diego and every time a delegate got up to speak he introduced himself as brother," said West. "So when I got up, I said, 'I am brother Mollie West.' The next year they addressed the crowd as brothers and sisters. They got the point."

West continues to be active in the labor movement and is a member of Local 16's executive board and is administrative secretary of the Illinois Labor History Society.

"Mollie West is a legend in labor and we're proud she's coming to Lake County," said David Barger, Lake County council president.

William Adelman, a labor historian who has researched the Republic Steel incident, will speak at the dinner at the Illinois Beach Resort in Zion.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

10 marketing basics—follow the money

According to Greek legend, King Midas has the power to turn everything he touched into gold. If you want to grow your business you may find that marketing is your "Midas touch."

I believe that success in any venture is the long-term result of doing simple things well. Since marketing is a critical element of business success, you must understand the basics and do them well. The following questions will help you understand where money comes from and how to keep it flowing into your business.

10 marketing questions

1. Where does cash come from? The source of cash—sales, revenues, income—is your customers. Once you know the source, you should focus on keeping the source from drying up. Therefore, the next nine questions will guide you toward serving your customers more effectively.

2. Who are my customers? If you're in an existing business you have at least six types of customers. These include current, potential, former, most-profitable, somewhat-profitable and unprofitable customers. The key to know which customers are helping you achieve your business goals.

3. How can I define (describe) them? There are two main ways to categorize customers: demographic and psychographic. Demographics include age, gender, income levels, education, location, etc. Psychographic factors include attitudes, lifestyles, preferences, prejudices, etc. Knowing your customers' characteristics will help you find ways to serve them better.

4. What are my customers thinking? There are four sub-questions you need to ask: What are they thinking about our business practices? How do they feel about our employees? How do they feel about me?

5. Where are they? This question is aimed at pinpointing the exact location of your customer base. Most important is the geographic location of your best customers. These are the ones who spend the most with you and generate the most profit for your firm. This information is critical in answering question six.

6. How can I reach my customers effectively and efficiently? How can we deliver a strong marketing message for the lowest possible cost? What media and methods will serve us best? We can use newspapers, radio, TV, direct mail, yellow pages, billboards, etc. What message do we want to send? What format will we use to drive the desired message home? See question eight for more on the message.

7. What are our customers buying? First, what are they buying from you? You can get this information from your sales records. Second, what are they buying from others? Here we're looking for general patterns and trends in your industry.

8. What can I offer my customers that they can't get from anyone else? This is your position. The future strength of

A mummifying process

Mineral wrap offers 'best solution' for skin toning

By MARLENE BROWN
Correspondent

If you've never had a mineral wrap, a healthful and exhilarating experience awaits you. The place to go? The Best Solution, Inc. in Libertyville. You'll walk in the door as a stranger. In a matter of seconds, you'll feel as if you were in the home of friends.

Rita Jones and Cathy Collins, owners, greet you with a smile and an offer to take your coat. As you look around, the decor's colors of mauve and soft neutrals invite you to feel comfortable and to "stay awhile."

A form is completed assuring your current health status. Then you're led to a curtained room where you disrobe to your underwear. You'll be weighed and then "measured." Almost every part of the body that has a circumference is noted. This will be key when comparing the measurements after the "wrap." Cathy and Rita guarantee a loss of six inches for women and four inches for men.

Questions are answered in a knowledgeable and friendly manner, and Step 2 is about to take place. It's the beginning of the "mummy" look.

Long ace bandages are rolled up and soaked in a warm tub of the minerals. Because our skin is an organ and porous, the minerals will enter the body and will begin the nourishing and detoxifying process. The wrap goes quickly, around the feet, up the legs, attention to the thighs and stomach, shoulders, chest, arms and finally the head. The hair is protected with a plastic cap. There is a fascination in watching this happen. Plastic bags are attached at the wrists and ankles. The hands and feet are thus enclosed as toxins leave the body. You think that this is weird but wonderful. You know that you really like it. Cathy makes sure that you understand that this is not a dehydration process. It also is not a weight loss gimmick. The lost inches do not come back if you maintain your present weight.

As you walk out of the little room, you feel the warmth start to diminish, but have no fear. You are covered with a poncho that seals in your body heat. As you are encouraged to make side-to-side movements to help the effects of the wrap, you are offered tea and your choice of entertaining videos. A timer is set, and at specific intervals you are "basted" with sprays of warm minerals. You know that when the wrappings come off, you will be measured again. It becomes a good time to get to know Cathy and Rita.

The Best Solution also offers hypnotherapy, non-medical ear candling and therapeutic massage. In fact, this whole enterprise began as a result of Rita's conversation with one of her massage clients. She noticed that her client's skin was softer and improved. Rita asked what she had done. When she heard that her client had a mineral wrap, she decided to find out for herself, what benefits it had.

She had several wraps, and was convinced that this would complement her interest in body work. She contacted Cathy, her friend of 25 years, and together they traveled to Clearwater, Florida to be trained, certified and licensed at the "Suddenly Slender" Institute. The week-long "boot camp" as Cathy called it, musing, included 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. classes in techniques and studies to learn every aspect of mineral wrapping. It was a long way from Rita's former job as an accountant, and Cathy's job in a dental office.

When asked to share some interesting results of the wraps, we were told that two people were wrapped and began talking to each other. When they were "unwrapped," they recognized each other as old friends. In another story, a woman lost 17 inches on her first wrap. In yet another, one woman came in weekly for 18 weeks, and lost 43 inches.

To answer some of the frequently asked questions, yes, cellulite can be reduced, and yes, you can get good results if you have varicose veins, kidney and/or liver problems, or loose skin from weight loss, and no, you will not feel tired or depressed after a wrap.

In picking out the location, Rita and Cathy looked around and waited until a place just felt right. Hidden behind a larger building facing Milwaukee Ave., the address is 1117 B4 in Forum Square.

Call at (847) 367-7320 for further information. And one more thing—there's a joke here somewhere about gift wrapping.

Lake County anti-violence coalition appoints coordinator

A Lake County anti-violence coalition has appointed Waukegan native Christine Lopez as its first coordinator.

A $20,000 grant from the Illinois Violence Prevention Authority enabled Lake County Unites for VIP (Violence Intervention and Prevention) to name Lopez to the part-time post. The group hopes to acquire enough funding to make the position full-time. VIP recently established an office at 109 S. Genesee St., Waukegan.

Lopez, a Waukegan East High School graduate, received a bachelor of arts degree in history from the University of Illinois in December 1995. A double major, she had also studied veterinary medicine. She is pursuing a master's degree in education at DePaul University.

Lopez said she is excited about coordinating VIP's activities and is especially interested in seeing that Lake County youth are included in the process. One of the programs VIP supports is YouthPeace, a statewide organization founded by the Illinois Council for the Prevention of Violence. A Lake County chapter has been meeting monthly at the College of Lake County since 1996 and efforts are being made to increase membership, Lopez said.

"Youth shouldn't be the non-persons of society," Lopez said. "They need to feel they are an active part of the community. If they don't have ownership in the community, what do they have?"

While attending U of I, Lopez said she participated in a variety of philanthropic organizations. She was co-founder and president of Delta Xi Phi, a multicultural service sorority that provided support to women.

She was active in "Say What..." a federally-funded program that gave students the opportunity to discuss such issues as drug use and abuse, peer pressure and basic communication skills. Members performed skits in high schools and facilitated group discussions by the students.

Lopez has a special affinity for youth who haven't gone to schools in prosperous communities.

"I know what it's like to come out of a school like Waukegan East and going to college and competing with kids from more affluent school districts like New Trier," she said.

Although Waukegan East couldn't compare with New Trier in terms of facility and programs, Lopez said she enjoyed the diversity of the student body. Waukegan East students were able to be open to people of other cultures, she said.

"High school was not a good time for me. The educational part was great. It's everything else that came with it. Like the cliques. I was homecoming queen but still felt like I didn't fit in. I relate to a lot of young people today because I can understand what they want."

Lopez credits a handful of "phenomenal" teachers at Waukegan East with encouraging her to continue her education. "You could tell they really wanted to be there."

Lopez feels that teachers don't receive enough respect. "They don't have an office or a phone. They're lucky to have a desk."

Yet she said society expects teachers to not only teach but to be disciplinarians and—in many cases—surrogate parents as well.

Lopez likes the concept of VIP. "It's great to see people and groups coming together to address concerns related to violence."

VIP is a coalition of human service organizations, etc. Founding organizations include the Northern Illinois Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse (NICASA), the Child Care Coalition of Lake County, the Lake County Health Department and Prevention Services/InTouch. Numerous other organizations and individuals are active in VIP.

Barbara Haley, chair of VIP's board said Lopez will strengthen the group's presence in Lake County.

"Christine brings a sensitivity to the issues and initiative for success," Haley said. "She will be coordinating the YEAR project. This includes enhancing YouthPeace, providing for community education and advocacy, and the development of a violence prevention resource center at the VIP office."

TAYLOR: 10 valuable marketing basics

your business depends on this point. The only advantage you have in the marketplace is what you offer your customers that no one else can. You may offer better pricing, higher quality products, faster service and follow-up, better work or quicker response. These advantages become the cornerstones on which you build your promotional message.

9. What are they likely to be looking for next? Anticipating your customers' future needs will help you position your business for success. You can get a jump on this by talking candidly with your customers, analyzing future trends and studying tomorrow's needs and wants.

10. Which products or services from question nine would be natural blends with, or extensions of your current offerings? This is your future marketing direction. Finally, items that work well with your current mix will help you keep a leg up on the competition. Tomorrow's profitable decisions will depend on the answers to the questions you ask today.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search:

I have been out seeking employment since graduation which was in June. I have a degree in business and have been going to school for what seems to be forever. I took some time off over the summer to kind of unwind. I felt I earned it. In September, I started avidly looking for a job with an interview here and there but unfortunately no luck. Now as the holidays are approaching, my folks are on my back that I should be searching harder than I am. I have tried to tell them that nobody is going to hire anyone this close to the holidays. Will you please confirm this?
W.G. - Antioch

Dear W.G.:

Sorry, I can't help you out there. Certainly it is expected that as the holidays approach, the hiring that companies do, may slow down. It does not stop, however. Many companies at this time are seeking temporaries to come in and fill in where needed for year end data that needs to be compiled, analysis that needs to be done, information in general that needs to get out. I will tell you that with the holidays upon you, there are less people taking the time to search for a job because they are thinking along the same lines as you. Actually, now is your best time to be out there looking. So many companies look to hire on at the end of the year with the knowledge that new hires will come on board after the first of the year. Don't put off until tomorrow what everyone else may be putting off too. Opportunity knocks even during the holiday season.

Dear Search:

I have a question regarding after interview protocol. How often should a person contact the employer after having interviewed with them. In particular, I interviewed with a company 2 weeks ago and was supposed to hear from them within 3 weeks from that time. I send a thank you note to the interviewer and have followed up with 2 telephone calls. I was not put through on either one of them. Is there a point in time where I may hurt my chances by appearing too aggressive?
R.K. - Gurnee

Dear R.K.:

Thank you notes are a definite must! It shows professionalism, respect and appreciation. A telephone call to the interviewer even after the note is sent can be beneficial. If you can get through to that individual, you may find out if there is in fact a possibility of your future with them. Be prepared with what to say before you make the call. Good Luck!

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee.

*Your APR may vary and is based on the Prime Rate as published in The Wall Street Journal on the last business day of the preceding month. The customary APR is the Prime Rate. During this special promotional period, the rate will be fixed at 7.5% APR for three years from the date of closing. After three years, the rate will be equal to the Prime Rate for the remainder of the term of the line (total term of line of credit is 10 years). Maximum APR is 15%. As of 3/31/98, the Prime Rate was 8.5% APR. This promotional rate is currently 7.5% APR. A loan-to-value ratio of 75% is required to qualify for this promotion and rate. If you cancel or terminate the line of credit within one year from the date of executing the loan documents (whether you have drawn on the line or not) you may be required to reimburse the bank for those fees paid by the bank. You must carry insurance on the property that secures this plan. The application fee of $100 is fully refundable after the account is established.

**See your tax advisor to determine full deductibility of interest. Ask us about our "Best Rate Guarantee" and additional qualifications.
